TEN CENTS

Oregon Primary Is Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — This year's first voting in which Viet Nam policy is clearly a significant issue comes Tuesday in Oregon, one of four states holding primaries that day.

The others are Florida and Oklahoma, where the balloting will be in runoff for nomination for governor, and Kentucky, which makes nominations for the Senate.

The week also has a fifth primary Saturday in North Carolina.

Viet Nam has developed as a major issue in the Oregon contest for the Democratic nomination for the Senate.

Howard Morgan, 52, a former state Democratic chairman, is seeking the nomination with support from Sen. Wayne Morse, the state's senior Democratic senator and a vigorous critic of the Johnson administration's Viet Nam policies.

When Viet Nam has come up in the campaign, Morgan has expressed views broadly in accord with those of Morse.

The other principal contender for the nomination is Rep. Robert B. Duncan, 45, who is a strong supporter of President Johnson on Viet Nam.

There is also a third candidate, Gilbert Meyer, but political observers do not expect him to make much of a dent in the total vote.

Kuna Pilot Gets Hero's Welcome

BOISE (AP) — Maj. Bernard Fisher — a jet-fighter pilot who landed in Viet Cong fire to rescue a downed pilot — got a hero's welcome today.

The Kuna pilot was met at the Capitol steps by officials, old friends and well-wishers and then paraded down the downtown streets.

Fisher was nominated for the Medal of Honor last March after he flew into a battered airfield at over 10,000 feet to take out a fellow pilot. His plane was hit by rifle fire 19 times.

He said today he had six to seven minutes to survey the prospects before making the decision to rescue.

"I thought we'd better get him out of there," he said. "I thought we'd better get him out of there."

Coronations in which Gov. Robert E. Smylie and other officials were to participate after the parade were canceled.

Smylie's press secretary, Norman Martin, said Fisher has been en route from Pleiku, South Vietnam, since 3 a.m. Friday so officials decided to make the welcome as brief as possible.

Air Force major was to be taken to his home in Kuna immediately after the parade. Fisher has been nominated for the nation's highest military honor for landing on a battered runway in the midst of Viet Cong fire to rescue a downed pilot.

After a 30-day stay at home, Fisher is scheduled for assignment in Germany. While in Idaho he plans to work on a summer cabin near Cascade.

A talk by Sen. Len Jordan at the Twin Falls County Republican central committee meeting Friday night highlighted such party meetings throughout the seven Magic Valley counties. New Tension Is Reported On Border

ALGIERS (AP) — New tension has flared up on the disputed Moroccan-Algerian border since the Algerian nationalization of an important iron mine on territory long claimed by Morocco. Persistent reports of troop movements on the Algerian side of the border were denied Saturday by Algerian spokesmen.

On the Moroccan side there were increasing signs of nervousness, recalling the tension preceding the brief 1963 border war in the disputed desert area between Tindouf and Figuig.

Morocco's right-wing Istiqlal party is putting strong pressure on King Hassan II to renounce Moroccan claims to the Tindouf area.

Tindouf is the site of one of the iron mines nationalized by an Algerian decree earlier this month. It also controls the only road linking Morocco with Mauritania, a vast desert area also claimed by Algeria and Morocco.

Only Survivor

CENTREVILLE, Mich. (AP) — A young man, 21, Centerville, a courageous young man with a pregnant wife and an amputated leg, is the only survivor among four men who underwent an experimental cancer treatment last March.

Thomas E. Welker, 31, Rink's partner in the cancer cell transplant operation, died Thursday in a Conrad, Mont., hospital.

Ending their high school careers Sunday and Monday will be more than 400 Twin Falls High School graduating seniors during baccalaureate and commencement exercises.

Baccalaureate exercises will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday in Bruin Stadium, weather permitting. Speaking will be Rev. James Bond, College Church of the Nazarenes, Nampa.

Commencement exercises will be held at 8 p.m. Monday in Bruin Stadium.

In case of inclement weather, both events will be held in the indoor gymnasium.

T.F. Reserve Center Has Open House

Armed Forces Day was observed Saturday at the Twin Falls Army Reserve Center, east of here, where Twin Falls residents watched basic training of recruits and making of bread.

Maj. Harlan Meyer, adviser, said the local unit has the responsibility of making bread for the whole battalion.

Open house was held at the center Saturday. Visitors saw 115 recruits take basic training. The recruits attended class and learned basic Army fundamentals.

Other members of the battalion are on maneuvers near Pocatello with other reserve units.

Maj. Meyer said the weekend drill will continue through Sunday. Sunday the recruits, after eating breakfast at 6 a.m., will attend training classes on marching, bivouacs, instruction on the M-16 rifle and other military classes.

Sunday afternoon the recruits will receive marksmanship training in individual tactical training and will end the week-end drill with two more hours of marksmanship.

Maj. Meyer said several recruits attended the center Saturday and watching recruits learn basic training.

5 Launchings Are Slated in Eight Days

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A new Atlas rocket and a large satellite for the Gemini 9 astronauts went up on a launch pad Saturday as the space agency prepared for one of the busiest periods in its short history.

Five major space launchings, including the rescheduled Gemini 9 mission, are slated from Cape Kennedy in an eight-day period starting Tuesday. Four of them are packed into one 36-hour period.

First on the firing line is an Explorer satellite set to blast off atop a Douglas Delta rocket at 10 a.m. EDT Tuesday. It is to probe mysteries of the upper atmosphere.

On Memorial Day, May 30, a Surveyor spacecraft is to streak toward a soft landing on the moon, carrying a television camera and devices to determine the hardness of the surface.

The Gemini 9 astronauts and their target satellite are to take off in separate launchings the morning of May 31. That night, an Orbiting Geophysical Observatory —OGO— is to blast into space to study physical properties of space and earth-ionosphere.

Three of the firings — Surveyor, OGO and the Gemini target — have Atlas boosters.

Buddhists Offer To Negotiate After Attack on Da Nang

SAIGON, South-Viet Nam (AP) — With forces of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military government rapidly getting the upper hand, rebel Buddhist leaders at Da Nang Sunday offered to negotiate if the United States would guarantee their safety. The offer was sent to U.S. Marine command or Gen. Lewis W. Walt hours after the United States evacuated some of its war planes from the Da Nang field in an exodus that could slow the war against the Communists.

There was no immediate indication whether the Buddhist offer would be accepted, or whether it was aimed at finding a compromise or meant surrender.

The U.S. base was calm after rebel firing Saturday. Rebel shelling of the base boomeranged into an American warning to Buddhist leaders: American troops will strike back in case of further such attacks on U.S. installations.

The Da Nang field, only about two miles from the center of the fighting between government troops and a rebel force of armed Buddhist civilians and defecting soldiers — has been a jump-off point for strikes against the Communists both north and south of the border. Most of the missions have been aimed against the Viet Cong.

Military sources said the offer is bound to have some military impact, but just how much could not be gauged immediately.

At the same time, the United States was reported to have put new pressure on Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's government to cut short the revolt that menaces the massive American commitment in South Vietnam.

President Johnson emphasized that the Americans are trying "to bring the various factions to an understanding of the need for unity while the constitutional (election) process is moving forward."

"We are not in Viet Nam to dictate what form of government they should have," Johnson said in a statement issued at a White House news conference. "Our wish is to see them work out a way to manage their own affairs."

President Johnson said the U.S. is not in Viet Nam to dictate what form of government they should have. "Our wish is to see them work out a way to manage their own affairs."

Diversion of War Effort Is Decried

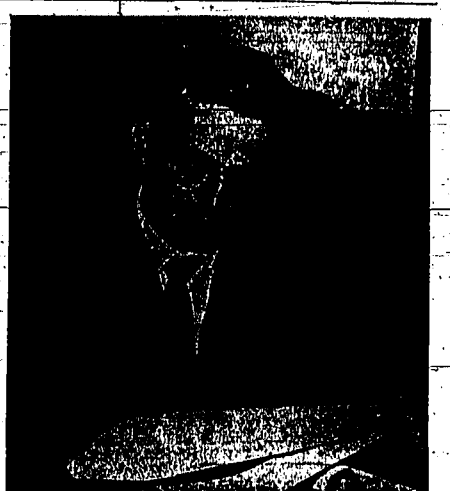

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calling for unity in South Viet Nam, President Johnson said Saturday he regrets any diversion from the war effort there or from the attempt to build democracy.

This was as close as Johnson came during a news conference in his office to criticizing the Viet Nam peace talks in Paris.

Johnson said the peace talks have hampered some military operations. Reading a prepared statement, beyond which he declined to venture, Johnson said the situation was being watched closely and asserted: "We believe everything possible should be done to bring the various factions to an understanding of the need for unity while the constitutional process is moving forward."

After speaking of this constitutional process, Johnson said, "We regret any diversion from that task and from efforts to defeat the Communist attempt to take over."

Johnson declined to state his current attitude toward Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, target for Buddhist demands for a new Saigon government.

LOOKING OVER the Urban Renewal project map is James R. Kelsch, director of the Twin Falls Urban Renewal Agency. Within the next several weeks detailed studies will be conducted by the Agency and qualified technical planners to determine what steps will be taken in the renovation of certain blocks in the downtown business district. (Times-News photo)

Downtown Business Area Studies Slated

Within the next several weeks the Urban Renewal Agency will conduct studies to determine what will be done on the rejuvenation of the Twin Falls downtown business area. The agency, consisting of Vay Hudson, Joseph Cline, Vernon Riddle, L. James Kuntz and John Wolfe, will be working with James R. Kelsch, Urban renewal director, and a planning study group which has not been appointed. The urban renewal project area consists of three one-half blocks bordering Second Avenue West and Second Avenue South and the full block between Second Avenue South and Third Avenue South. By one-half blocks the agency means from the alley parallel with Main Avenue to Second Avenue. The section of the block bordering Main Avenue will not be affected.

Through these detailed studies the agency will find the best way of implementing the urban renewal plans. The studies will include reports such as demographic, economic, social, market ability, project improvements and land acquisition. Kelsch pointed out that the market study on the area is the first priority.

Blighting, as used by the agency, means the structural condition of the buildings. A blighted area is one in which a "fire hazard, or is structurally substandard is termed blighted."

The urban renewal plan will indicate the definite project boundaries, the land to be acquired, how the land will be subdivided and the general land use permitted within the project area.

To meet requirements of both state and federal law, a report on the structural condition of buildings on the project area also will be included in the study. See STUDIES, Page 2, Col. 5.

Lloyd Webb Won't Seek Re-Election

District Judge Lloyd J. Webb announced Saturday that he will not be a candidate for re-election.

In a statement released Saturday afternoon, Judge Webb, who has been sitting on the bench in the eastern and the northern judicial districts (Cassia and Minidoka counties), said: "I reached this decision after lengthy consideration and finally only after being advised that Sherman J. Bellow, a highly qualified lawyer of this district, a distinguished former district judge, has consented to be a candidate to succeed me."

"Four years ago when I sought this position I hoped to achieve a number of things. I feel that most of them have been achieved."

"Efficient administration of justice has been reformed to the eastern part of the district; court calendars have been brought into a more current; an attempt to help relieve congestion in other parts of the state has been made by my sitting in the other districts in times of difficulty in these districts."

"I have had to establish that a young and active lawyer can do a reasonably apt job as district judge. I have finally learned that private practice presently interests me more than does the judiciary."

"I want to express my deep gratitude to the court personnel who have aided me in the Supreme Court for their interest in me; to the county commissioners in Cassia and Minidoka counties for their cooperation, particularly in improving court facilities; to the judges who have aided me in making a large stride toward making judicial services reasonably comparable with the income of a capable practicing attorney."

"I intend to return to private practice in Turley."

2 Englishmen Start Rowing Across Ocean

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — Two hardy Englishmen pulled the first stroke on their 15-foot boat on a 3,000-mile trip to England.

Hundreds of well-wishers lined the shore as David Johnstone, 34, and John Hoare, 29, began the long row in their 15-foot craft, "Puffin."

They hope to make the trip in fewer than 55 days, breaking a 70-year-old record. They left the Long Creek marina shortly after 7 a.m. and were towed to the Virginia Beach ocean front.

They stopped about 400 yards offshore and were towed to the beach for a meeting with dignitaries and a final hot meal.

At least 300 persons lined the beach with cameras.

Johnstone, wearing an aqua sweatshirt bearing the lettering "Virginia Beach, Va.," across the front, and Hoare, dressed in a T-shirt and khakis, made their way to the dining room where they quickly downed bacon, eggs, toast, milk and hot tea.

They were scheduled to depart as soon as they finished breakfast but were delayed because of a loss of their short wave radio. Messengers were sent to find another.

Asked if he had any misgivings about the trip, Johnstone replied: "Absolutely none. I'm looking forward to getting out there and mooting it all."

Hoare chimed in: "I'm straining at the bit right now."

Claiborn Raps Walker for Attack on Agriculture Unit

Lloyd Walker, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, was taken to task Saturday by State Rep. Jack D. Claiborn for his attack on the State Department of Agriculture and Gov. Robert E. Smylie.

Claiborn, candidate for reelection from district 23 and also president of the Idaho Beet Growers Association, said:

"Since gubernatorial candidate Lloyd Walker has suddenly become an authority on agricultural commodities, he has accused the State Department of Agriculture, the governor and, by inference, the Agriculture Committee of the Legislature of 'ignorance and nonfeasance' in the field of agriculture."

"His reference to sugar beet quotas and price need some explanation. Prior to the passage of the 1965 Sugar Act, the U.S. sugar beet industry was producing about 250,000 tons of sugar in excess of the marketing allotment."

"This resulted in large carryovers, for which the grower shares in the storage, plus the fact any commodity, in excess production naturally affects price."

"In view of this condition, the National Beet Growers Federation asked the secretary of agriculture to invoke acreage allotments for the 1965 crop."

"With acreage allotments and an increase in the quota as established by the 1965 Sugar Act, production in 1965 was in excess of marketing allotments."

"To say that the governor should or could have any influence in grower-company relations is a little ridiculous, or to simply that anyone in the state government could do anything to increase quotas for any state in the administration of the law."

"While it is true that several thousand acres were not planted in Magic Valley because growers and the company did not agree on a contract, it does not mean that these growers will lose acreage history. They have been assured that the 1966 crop year will not be used in the base period for future years production history."

"The U.S. sugar beet producers have one of the strongest unified organizations in the country and have had the support of all state officials of beet growing states, and of the Congress when its support has been asked for."

"Sugar prices, on which are based the price paid beet growers, have not increased any appreciable amount in the last 10 years. As a result, it is estimated that the national acreage will be some 150,000 acres under the allotment for 1966, because of the price growers receive for their crop.

"I doubt that the governor of Idaho would have much influence in increasing the price of sugar."

No State Credit

Jerome and Twin Falls counties opened some eyes around the state when progressive and education-minded property owners approved the $3 million bond issue for the College of Southern Idaho. Make no mistake—that bond issue approval will have far-reaching effect on the state's system of higher education. The Legislature won't overlook approval of the bond issue and it would be a good guess that individual legislators will attempt to push the state along farther toward a goal of state-supported junior colleges.

The last regular session of Idaho's Legislature took a big step down that road when it approved formation of six junior college districts. The move was merely a blueprint for the future because although it designated the districts, nothing was done to start junior colleges. So it was rather surprising, in the wake of the Jerome and Twin Falls vote on the bond issue, to read that Gov. Robert E. Smylie termed the bond vote, "This is one of the first fruits of our new authorization for a statewide system of junior colleges."

All the credit for starting the junior college and the bond election success belongs to the residents of Jerome and Twin Falls counties. Gov. Smylie is talking through his hat. Instead of making it easier for portions of the state to form junior college districts, the Idaho Legislature made the process much more difficult.

Magic Valley residents will recall an earlier election to form a junior college district. The effort originated at Buhl and included the Buhl and Twin Falls school districts. It was pretty much of a hurry-up election to take advantage of a law that specified a mere majority. If there had been a little more time, the election would have succeeded. "Help" from the state level in creating junior college districts took the form of raising the necessary majority to two-thirds. Each person can judge for himself if a two-thirds majority in an election is "help" or a formidable obstacle.

To the everlasting credit of Jerome and Twin Falls counties, this unrealistic and perhaps unconstitutional two-thirds majority obstacle has been overcome twice in the drive to establish the College of Southern Idaho. No one else can share in the glory.

Idaho's Legislature can claim some credit in the field of financing for junior colleges. State liquor money has been available to junior colleges for some time. A new law also assigns responsibility for tuition to the various counties, even when they aren't part of a junior college district. The first financing comes from a county's liquor funds. When that source is exhausted, the county must pass a levy that will go as high as three mills to meet the rest of its obligation. Depending on registration at the College of Southern Idaho, Magic Valley counties outside the junior college district will feel the full force of that law next fall.

It's almost a certainty that the College of Southern Idaho will be a part of the state-supported system of higher education in the not distant future. But when the state steps into the picture, let the politicians give credit to where credit is due, the people of Jerome and Twin Falls counties.

MAY BE ENDING

The decision to increase wheat acreage allotments for the 1967 crop could be one of the first indications of a reversal in the long trend toward agricultural overproduction. Wheat acreage will increase from 51.8 million acres this year to 59.3 million acres next year. It results because of the heavy exports of wheat. No one should imagine that the nation has about exhausted its huge hoard of agricultural products. To the contrary, agricultural commodities stockpiled by the federal government in January were valued at almost $4 billion.

The stockpile of wheat isn't being exhausted, either, in spite of heavy exports. At the end of January, the nation still had more than 530 million bushels of wheat. However, that's somewhat lower than in past years. The figure indicates that world-wide consumption has started to catch up with U.S. production in at least wheat. Last June 30, the U.S. supply of wheat hit a 13-year low.

The increase in wheat acreages will be felt by farmers everywhere. If wheat is grown on 7.7 million more acres of land this year, it automatically means less land will be planted to other crops. It means that next year farmers may grow more wheat, but at the same time they'll grow less soybeans or corn or pasture or beans. If the supply of other commodities falls, the price likely will increase. Perhaps the wheat decision will lead eventually to the end of controls and acreage allotments. Farmers would welcome it.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON — Ironically, most State Department technicians in the Viet-Nam issue are genuine liberals. They report that Ho Chi Minh's health is failing. Although the 75-year-old Ho officially is Uncle Sam's No. 1 enemy as boss of North Viet Nam's Communist regime, he is yet regarded in certain circles as a man in a hat. This is not to say that any U.S. official in his right mind has any illusions about Ho, a dedicated Communist since 1919 and one of the founders of the French Communist Party. He is, rather, the leader of two evils—a strong nationalist who tends to take a stand against the pro-Peking bloc in Hanoi's ruling clique. As such, Washington has a stake in his well-being.

There have been reports recently that Ho's influence is being undermined by the leading proponent of collaboration with Red China, the relatively unknown La Duan, who fills the wild post of deputy secretary of the North Viet Nam Communist Party. Traditionally, the party's secretary has been the power behind every Communist throne, but until lately La Duan's ambitions have been inhibited by Ho's hero status. After all, it was Ho who crushed the flower of France's colonial army, and he has been canonized by a North Viet Nam who is an expedient ally to the Communist Party is little more than a facade for its fierce nationalism.

GETTING BUILD UP — But Le Duan is now making points. He represented Hanoi at the Soviet Communists' 23rd congress in Moscow and then stopped off for extended inks in Peking. He has been described by William P. Bundy, Assistant Secretary of State for Asian Affairs, as "the most powerful, most influential, and realistic power terms" in North Viet Nam. Ho would be an odd-on favorite to take over if Ho died or became disabled.

In the meantime, Ho must be kept by Le Duan and his cronies regardless of how ideologically difficult it may be. What the State Department is hoping is that Ho will hang on long enough for another year, at a minimum — for the pro-Moscow gang to gain strength.

The so-called Moscow wing of the Hanoi regime is generally identified with Premier Pham Van Dong, who is also a member of the Politburo, and Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, a Politburo member who is also a vice premier and the country's top military strategist. Parenthetically, Giap in the past has been critical of some of the police-state excesses employed by Ho in consolidating his position after the expulsion of the French.

BELIEVED MOSCOW SYMPATHIZER — So far, Ho has been neutral — but on the right, or pro-Moscow side. Although he tends to take a position in the middle between Peking and Moscow, his background suggests that his sympathies lie with the Moscow gang. He learned the Communist ropes in Moscow and was a minor Soviet functionary in China in the days of Sun Yat-sen's Kuomintang, and he is said to have viewed the then emerging Chinese Communist leaders with something less than enthusiasm.

Most important, however, is Ho's nationalism. He is suspicious of Peking's aims, because like most Vietnamese he has a long memory of his country's centuries as a colony of China, and he is ridden with the fear that Peking might decide that the only way to drive the Americans out of Southeast Asia is to take over its North Viet Nam satellite.

Moreover, Ho has discovered that the long war is taking its toll of his own country. American air strikes in the north have been demoralizing psychologically as well as physically. He has set back North Viet Nam's industry by years and set Ho's people to doubting the nobility of their government's campaign to "liberate" the south. He wants a country as intact as possible when the war is over so it can afford self-rule. He knows better than any State Department official that the Chinese will have a built-in excuse to move in.

CONSUMING USES — The Pacific Northwest states should react with a good deal of caution about statements coming out of the Pacific Southwest that they want "only water the Northwest does not need." This requires definition of the term "consuming uses."

When inhabitants of the Southwest think about consuming uses of water, they usually think in terms of using water for domestic, agricultural and industrial purposes. They drink it, bathe in it, use it for irrigation and for industrial development. Admittedly, it would take the Pacific Northwest a long time to use all of its Columbia River water for those purposes.

But Pacific Northwesterners are fully aware that life in the Columbia, as we know it, cannot go forward if the river is committed to consuming uses in the same way Colorado River water is used. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., made this point in his now famous speech in Antioch, Calif., last Nov. 5. The point has been repeated by others.

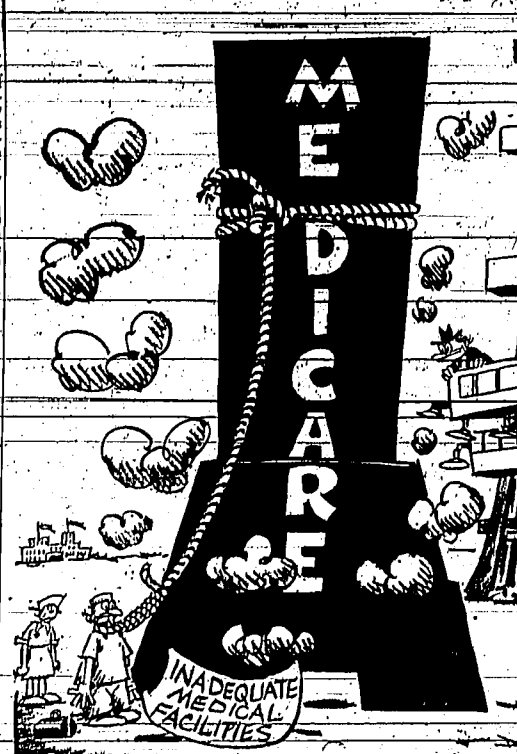

Considerable volumes of water are required on the Columbia for such non-consuming uses as power, recreation, navigation, dilution and fish. Furthermore, federal agencies have reported that demands for hydroelectric power can be met only until the mid-1970s. After that, substantial amounts of steam-electric generation—some of it nuclear fueled—will be required. In making their demand for diversion of water from the Columbia River to Lake Mead, the Southwest states find it difficult to realize that the Columbia's discharge of 18.3 million acre feet a year into the Pacific Ocean is not necessarily "wasted." While inhabitants of the Colorado River states think in terms of "consuming uses" of water, we in the Pacific Northwest would be agnostic at the thought of killing off our fish and game by accepting pollution as inevitable, reducing the vast power production of the region, or destroying our recreation and wildlife facilities so that the Southwest can have more water for its desert lands, where the underground water supply is being depleted, particularly in Arizona.

Arizona farmers have asked us, "Can't you spare a little water from the Columbia? Yes, Pacific Northwest water experts know that diversion of 15 million acre feet a year from the Columbia is a great deal of water—equivalent to the flow of the Snake at Hells Canyon or the Willamette at Salem. What would such a diversion do to the Columbia? Experts in four states are studying the problem, with results due in 1970.

In reviewing the water situation carefully, the Pacific Northwest water experts are inclined to reject the "consuming uses" argument — The Oregonian.

Political turmoil in South Viet Nam could bring about what the Communists long have sought: Creation of an untenable rear for their foes which might lead eventually to a political Dien Bien Phu.

Communist broadcasts are jubilant about recent developments in the South. They see one convulsion after another. They see enemies among the southern generals. They note the militancy of a Buddhist movement which now has become a big political factor.

All these, the Communists may feel, offer a promise that the South will be given no rest in the cities, behind their lines, and that thus the will and ability to prosecute the war will be eroded.

U.S. administration leaders are pictured how as determined to support a strong military role in any future Saigon government, if that government is to have any chance of building a decent and fighting a war simultaneously.

But it has become doubtful that even military men in South Viet Nam are able to establish any real unity of purpose so far as evolution of the state is concerned.

Fourteen years ago the French, facing the debacle at Dien Bien Phu which swept the Communist Vietnam to victory in the North, had 200,000 troops in all Indochina, exclusive of Vietnamese forces. This included army, navy and air forces in Laos and Cambodia as well as Viet Nam.

Today the United States has 255,000 troops in South Viet Nam alone. It still appears insufficient to do the job the prime goal: To conquer the Communist guerrillas and pacify the country.

In all the years of disasters and coups, the authority of the state often has seemed about ready to collapse into anarchy. The military men now find themselves faced with a highly emotional civil war—Buddhist movement, a volatile and unpredictable movement, which tends to confound political action and the single political goal.

Ever since the regime of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem ousted the then disorganized Buddhists—liberal, militant, the Buddhists have been organizing politically. Now they probably are the biggest single political factor in South Viet Nam. And they are planning. They have been planning to do everything the state—under mil-

Interpreting The News

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The way the two secretaries of state handled their job was completely different but both got job done. The colorful actor, John Foster Dulles, and the quiet technician, Dean Rusk.

Criticism just took longer catching up with Rusk. If the Vietnamese war ends in American disaster, Rusk may wind up being the punching bag, a TV-Lite target for someone when a nation feels frustrated.

Dulles was foreign policy during most of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's two terms. He was flamboyant, used exaggerated language to make a point, was go-go-go, and until his death in 1959 talked with full authority.

Eisenhower liked it that way. There was a big switch under President John F. Kennedy who made it clear from the start he was foreign policy and would shape it and state it. Rusk was his adviser and foreign policy technician.

This seemed to suit the retiring Rusk. While Dulles had been lambasted endlessly for statements he made, there was hardly an unkind word for Rusk in Kennedy's time. He preferred being an echo, not a spokesman.

The result: he seldom said anything new, leaving that to Kennedy. And when he did talk in speeches or at news conferences his words were big bunches of words—actually put some people to sleep.

It might have been like that in this day for Rusk, a tireless and dedicated worker behind the scenes but publicly colorless. If there hadn't been a change in presidents and circumstances.

President Johnson, expressing the highest confidence in Rusk, has used him far more than Kennedy did to state the administration's positions, policies and dilemmas. But the smoldering Vietnamese war burst into flames under Johnson.

As the war goes on — grim, often stupid, and rapidly chaotic, with criticism here and home increasing — the public gets more puzzled — a problem Johnson might have tried to straighten out in a very simple way.

He could have gone on national wide television to give the people a full-length explanation and at the same time answer the Ann-Margret had been in Viet Nam to entertain the troops. Then that thought hit. At first it was maybe, but after a few seconds — even though there were two other cots in the tent, both of them now filled with snoring men — I knew this had to be the one Ann-Margret slept on.

It didn't matter that it had been 40 nights earlier. I'm sleeping in Ann-Margret's bed. The last thought I had before the cot melted into a thick, fluffy mattress fit for a star.

The next morning — just to be sure — I stopped the nearest uniformed body. "Ann-Margret, please sleep here," he said with a puzzled look on his face. "What are you talking about?" "Well, her name's on the guest list in the Ann-Khite Hilton over there."

MARQUIS CHILDS WRITES ON WASHINGTON

NEW YORK — An old friend of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller says the young Nelson decided he would one day be President of the United States. While he has sworn to put aside any further presidential ambitions, it is not a 70-year-old itch from which the sufferer rarely, if ever, recovers. It is more virulent if the victim has come within a whisker of the prize. Most analysts, including the late President John F. Kennedy, speaking privately, believe that if the Republican had nominated Rockefeller in 1960 he would have won. They chose Richard M. Nixon instead and Nixon, who lost by the narrowest of margins in the popular vote, is out to capture the nomination once more.

The presidential issue arose because Sen. Jacob Javits, far and away the GOP's greatest vote-getter in the state, strongly suspected that despite all his disclaimers Rockefeller was getting ready for another try. This would mean a repetition of the fatal split of 1964, and if the party was not already dead that would be the knell of doom. So Javits did some apple feinting, indicating he would very likely run for the nomination for governor himself.

Rockefeller was smoked out and declared that a third term in Albany was the limit of his ambition. At the same time the track was cleared for a favorite son delegation for Javits at the 1968 convention and the glitter of his own ambition and the No. 2 spot on the national ticket — at the end of the road. He would be the first Jew chosen by a national party for the first or second place.

A year ago Rockefeller's chances were not rated high. His divorce, remarriage and his failure in the presidential primaries were all fresh in the public mind. The need for more critics, instead, he has simply mentioned the war in a number of unconnected speeches.

They gave neither a full nor a coherent picture and the President has relied much on Rusk to explain things for him, particularly in testimony before congressional committees.

But Rusk's efforts were forever getting scrambled by congressional questions and rebuttals. So to this day the administration has not given the kind of coherent explanation which might be a useful public service.

While Rusk is saying more than he did under Kennedy, he still gives the picture of being a foreign policy technician and adviser, which means, despite his dedication, he has not been a forceful figure.

Nevertheless, Rusk is being criticized a bit at a time as the Vietnamese war gets more confusing, although no one outside the Johnson administration can say very well how much of Rusk's advice Johnson has accepted.

But if the American effort in Viet Nam collapses because of the internal chaos there, the search for scapegoats will begin here. Johnson will get blamed, of course, but he's been elected to a four-year term.

But his advisers will get blamed, too. And since Rusk is in the room, his advisers will get more than his share and wind up the No. 1 casualty, although he seems to have made few if any personal enemies.

What to do about it? The city itself, with its outdated incinerators, is one of the worst offenders, as are the city buses and the public buildings. To upgrade the incinerators would cost $20 million.

Money, money, money — this is the cry during the mayor's last day in office. At the same time rebellious taxpayers at a tax hearing at City Hall screamed and howled their protest. The New York Stock Exchange is threatening to move to New York City because of a $50-million stock-transfer tax. All that can be said is that if this Jack the Giant Killer strikes down even half the giants in his way and survives he will average a formidable man-for-any-future-office.

South counted 27 high card points between his hand and dummy. That left 13 points for East and West. Eight of them were represented by the ace-jack of hearts and the other five by the king and jack of spades and the jack of diamonds.

West had opened the bidding with one heart. He surely needed at least 12 points for an opening bid in which case his spade finesse would not work. This left another play for the contract and South tried it. Instead of finessing the spade, South simply led out the ace and the king. West had to win with the king and South was able to pick up the rest of the tricks.

Awards Given Buhl High School Junior At Shoshone Accepted by N. Y. College Assembly

SHOSHONE—Special awards were presented to students of Shoshone high school who had earned them at the annual awards assembly held Wednesday at the school gymnasium.

Students who had earned 84 per cent in their grades for the time they spent in high school included seniors, Mary Tows, Gail Ross, Kathy Miller, Linda Johnson, Judi Hannah, Sandra Hultquist and Mary Broyles; juniors, Marilyn Peterson, Spencer Bateman, Melinda Broyles, Darlene Glauner, Brent Hadlock, Chris Mabbitt, Richard Neher, sophomore, Marilyn Mintoning and Vicky Bazzotto, and freshmen, Rph Tows, Louise Struth, Alan Crothers and Katie Hansen.

RUPERT—First Lt. Bobby D. Anderson, son of Mrs. Luella L. Anderson, Route 1, Rupert, has entered the Air University's Squadron Officer School at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala.

son of Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich Bowler, Blas, has been accepted at the end of his junior year at the Buhl High School as a freshman student at Bard College, Annandale-on-the-Hudson, N. Y. The 17-year-old student has received a $2,000 scholarship.

BLISS—Peter Bowler, Buhl high school junior son of Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich Bowler, Blas, has been accepted at the end of his junior year as a freshman student at Bard College, Annandale-on-the-Hudson, N. Y. The 17-year-old student will receive a $2,000 scholarship when he enrolls for his freshman year in September as a pre-medical student.

Bowler received his elementary education at Bliss and attended one year of school in Holland. He completed summer classes in typing and literature at Claremont High School in California last summer.

The youth has systematically applied to a wide variety of institutions and has been learning where his academic background might be acceptable. At the end of this year, he will have completed 38 semester credits, having taken college aptitude tests.

This usually is done in the senior year of high school. His high school diploma will be awarded next year—based on his satisfactory completion of his first semester at Bard College. It is noted that there is a lack of a public library in the Bliss area and Bowler was able to use the full service of the Idaho State Library. This was started as the State Traveling Library and was originally intended to be used by mining and lumber communities.

However, Bowler had made good use of its service, and notes if a book is not available, the library will get it from another library. The staff deserves a great deal of credit for helping him, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bowler, said.

They emphasize the challenge that a student is allowed to meet beyond the regular curriculum at Buhl High School.

Wesley Keeney, high school guidance counselor, explained that if a student has the developed potential, he can change his curriculum in such a way that three years work would be acceptable to some colleges.

However, under Idaho state law, a diploma will be awarded only upon the completion of eight semesters work and 34 credits.

KENNETH SAXTON

son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Saxton, has been elected student body president of the Buhl High School. Jack Rose is vice president; Maria Tremayne, secretary, and Shauna Turner, Susan Turner, Pat Reed and Gwen Jacobs are cheerleaders. Class presidents are Barry Redman, seniors; Sam Matthews, juniors; Gary Mallory, sophomores, and Steven Preston, freshman.

Minidoka to Hold Summer School Class

RUPERT—Plans for a summer school program are being completed by Minidoka County school officials and will get underway June 13.

A summer kindergarten and remedial program under Public Law 89-10 were approved, but school trustees decided not to participate in Project Headstart, a summer school program for economically underprivileged children.

Among the reasons for refusal to participate in the program was lack of teacher availability, according to Supt. Camden Meyer. Also the Department of Labor, which administers the program, requires that teachers participate in a week's training prior to start of the school, and the training period occurs during the first week of school in Minidoka county.

The demands of the Department of Labor for the Headstart program is to be established in participating schools and includes making provisions for children's physical examinations, dental and eye examination, free hot lunches and many other parental responsibilities, Meyer said.

While the Department of Labor tells school officials exactly how Project Headstart must be operated, Public Law 89-10, under which Minidoka county schools will operate a kindergarten and remedial program this summer, permits school officials to plan their own program, subject to approval.

The kindergarten program will operate in conjunction with a summer school for other children of all grades, including high school. Students attending will be recommended by teachers and school principals with parental approval, and the course will be free.

The sessions for children attending elementary school will be held at Memorial school from 8 until 11 a.m. Classes will include language, art and mathematics.

Junior-high-school-and-high-school students will be offered various subjects and high school students will meet in the English building at Minico from 8 a.m. to noon.

The kindergarten and summer school will be free to those attending and credits may be earned in some high school classes. Transportation will be furnished on truck routes throughout the county.

RECOMMENDED
BOISE (AP) — A third educational television station in Idaho will be recommended to the legislature next year, D. F. Engelking said Friday.

Educational stations are now operating at the University of Idaho and Idaho State University.

SUPPORT ASKED
MOUNTAIN HOME (AP) — American fighting men in Viet Nam and elsewhere need full support from every citizen of the United States, Sen. Len Jordan, R-Idaho, told an Armed Forces Day observance today.

"We must do everything possible to assure that they do not lack for even one weapon or supply needed to carry out their military assignments," the Idaho Republican said.

GOODING SETS
Mental Health Campaign

GOODING — The Gooding County Mental Health Association has announced its annual fund drive.

The door-to-door march will be held from 8 p.m. to 8 p.m. Monday in Gooding, and at 6 p.m. Tuesday in Wendover.

Officials of the organization point out that citizens should take a clear look at what the American Medical Association calls the "nation's most complex and critical health problem."

If a person suffers a heart attack he can get the best medical attention in a matter of seconds. If his own doctor cannot be reached he can be rushed by ambulance to the emergency service of his local hospital.

With the many medical advances in the last decade there is now hope for the mentally ill if they are provided with early and adequate treatment.

Because of the new drug and psychiatric therapies, nine out of 10 patients are now being treated either partly or wholly recovered, in a few months to a year after admission.

What is needed now is the whole range of diagnostic treatment and rehabilitation services for mental illness, that is, provided for physical illness.

The local mental health association wants to bring those services within the reach of everyone in the community.

BOISE (AP) — A new federal government catalogue of its programs gives an indication of federal thrusts being made into state and local government domains, Idaho tax expert Max Yost said today.

PROBLEMS AIDED
COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — A meeting between North Idaho Junior college faculty members and administrators Friday was termed an "honest effort to clear up the situation" by one spokesman.

School President Perry Christensen led the meeting in which faculty members asked the NJC Board of Trustees to withdraw its request for the resignation of two faculty members.

"The meeting was called because there were several points the faculty wanted to clarify," one unidentified faculty member said. "I think it will all work out now."

Voter League
Official at Burley Quits

BURLEY — The League of Women Voters of Burley has announced the resignation of Mrs. J. Martin, chairman of the State study items on the board of directors.

Mrs. Martin resigned to actively support her husband, James G. Martin, a candidate for the state senator from Cassia County, Legislative district 23.

"The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan organization whose purpose is to promote informed and active participation of citizens in government," stated Mrs. George Quarterman, Jr., president of the Burley League.

"The League does not support or oppose political candidates, but it does take stands on issues selected for thorough study by the members, once agreement has been reached," she said.

"However, to prevent partisan activity from influencing League plans and activities, board members do not engage in any partisan political activity during their term of League leadership," Mrs. Quarterman explained.

Participation in the activities of political parties is an essential ingredient of citizen responsibility, and league members not on the board are urged to work as individuals in the party of their choice.

Mrs. Martin's resignation was accepted at the monthly board meeting. In addition to serving as chairman for the two state study items, she was chairman of arrangements for the state convention held at the Ponderosa Inn last spring.

The show, slated for 8 p.m. Saturday in the Eller High School auditorium, will be a combination of ballet, tap, modern jazz and baton numbers.

Mrs. Mauldin said the show has 33 dance routines, all of which are group numbers with the exception of two.

The dancers in the show will range from 3 to 21 years old, states Mrs. Mauldin.

Rest Area Vandalism Is Deplored

SHOSHONE — Vandalism is costing extreme amounts to the Department of Highway, according to Blaine E. Sessions, district engineer at the local state office.

One of the latest attacks has been on a rest area on Interstate 15-W, about 10 miles west of Burley. This rest area was established the first part of July, 1965, at an approximate cost of $55,000.

The area includes rest room facilities, shaded picnic tables, lawns, fresh running water and ample parking space.

The vast majority of travelers stopping at this rest area use the facilities for the purpose intended.

"It is a shame," Sessions points out, "we have the few, the minute minority, whose mental make-up induces them to destroy, once they have used. Those few cost the public many thousands of dollars each year."

Destroys destroyed property, as an example of the loss, Sessions listed the following articles of equipment as either damaged or destroyed:

In just a six month period: Four plastic waste baskets, two metal waste baskets, one 20-gallon garbage can, two light fixtures and bulbs, seven mirrors, one automatic door closer arm, two sky lights, one case of toilet tissue, one 50-foot garden hose, six powdered soap dispensers, four toilet tissue dispensers, two broken door locks, four coat hangers on toilet doors, three halogen jugs of chlorine, 25 plastic garbage can liners, eight men's and women's signs, one bubbler head sprinkler, one tree broken off, one tree top cut off and one drinking fountain ripped from the wall.

In addition, a 15-gallon can of mixed anti-freeze and a heater hose were stolen from a department vehicle while the attendant worked on one of the buildings.

Vulgar and obscene writings appear on the walls and sewer lines are plugged by paper cups and towels.

To correct this destruction the department was put to an expense of more than $2,000, over and above the regular anticipated maintenance costs.

Sessions said, "The department is doing all it can to maintain rest areas in a clean, neat and sanitary condition. We do not have the personnel to patrol them constantly. We therefore solicit the assistance of all fair-minded citizens. Please report any observed instances of misuse to us. We will take proper steps to forestall a repeat."

Escape of 8 Trustees Signifies Needs at Prison

BOISE (AP) — Eight trustees of the Idaho State Penitentiary have walked away since April 24.

To Warden Mark Maxwell, that signifies a need for more personnel and better facilities — and an outlet for the tremendous emotional pressure on the inmates themselves.

In an interview, Maxwell explained a trusty working outside prison walls may have heard that his wife was cheating on him or that there was trouble at home.

Or, Maxwell continued, pressure, from other trustees could make a prisoner decide to run away.

William Clements, 25, the most recent escapee, was cited as a possible case of the latter.

But he said reports indicated Clements wound up a card game owing several trustees money from $7 down. Prisoners can play cards, but gambling is forbidden.

"Indications are that these guys were pulling pressure on him to pay off these debts," Maxwell said.

Initiated in any institution — prize United States currency, Maxwell said.

"If an inmate can get money," he said, "it adds to the potential of his escape."

To provide a release for mounting emotional pressures, Maxwell said:

"I know that if we had a good counselor who could go out and talk to these men, it would be a great help," he said.

Some trustees work and live at the new prison site 10 miles south of Boise and at the Eagle Island prison farm eight miles west of Boise.

A big help will be the new penitentiary, he continued.

But it is years away from completion and depends on appropriations from the legislature.

each blimp for construction the warden should not be a member of the board."

He added there has been too much work piled up on the warden and the chairman of the board, and the two other board positions.

The two others are secretary Saul Clark, who is also director of probation and parole, and chairman of the Board of Corrections — "are somewhat in conflict with each other," I think

Other new officers are Victor J. Bozuto, first vice commander; Joe Pagoga, second vice commander; Joe Berlichon, third vice commander, and Reid J. Newby, finance officer.

Officers held over from last year are Roger W. Kelley, adjutant; Omer N. Shook, chaplain; Harry J. Edens, service officer; E. L. Gomes, historian, and Hal Ross, sergeant-at-arms.

Eighth Grade Graduation Rites Held

SHOSHONE — Eighth grade graduation exercises were held Tuesday evening at the high school gymnasium.

Presenting the class will were Nancy Carpenter, Terri Churchman, Ellis Johnson and Judy Peak. Wanda Elliott and Michael Manning sang a duet.

The class prophecy was by Dianne McGhee, Jerry Guthrie, Susan Neher and Paul Berlichon.

Supt. Kenneth Crothers presented the students to Mrs. Fern Manning, school board chairman, who presented the diplomas of graduation.

Gwen Spencer sang and Layne Haddock gave the benediction.

Jerome Couple Hurt in Wreck

Jerome — Joe Barnes, 23, and his wife, Patricia Ann, 17, Jerome, received severe lacerations, cuts and bruises in a one-car accident early Friday afternoon six miles north and one-fourth mile east of Jerome.

Mrs. Barnes was driving their 1965 Chevrolet sedan west on the county road and swerved to avoid a rabbit. She lost control of the car and crashed into a cement canal abutment on the right hand side of the road.

Jerome County Sheriff's department, which investigated the accident, reported the car was completely demolished.

An ambulance was called and the couple was taken to St. Benedict's hospital where they were dismissed after being treated.

No Clang

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP). — Meeting me, or anybody else, in St. Louis Sunday won't be the same. There'll be no clang, clang, clang of the trolley or the ding, ding, ding of the bell.

Streetcars clanged along their tracks for the last time today after more than 100 years as part of the St. Louis scene.

Added Funds Sought for BLM Roads

An appeal for help in getting further appropriations for Bureau of Land Management roads has been made by Douglas Kramer to Sen. Lee Jordan.

Kramer, candidate for the GOP nomination as state senator from district 24, said he took the action to follow up his pledge to work for a road and means to cross Salmon Falls Creek, west of Buhl.

"Sen. Jordan has requested Congress to increase appropriations for federal forest roads," Kramer said, "and it seems to me that BLM lands are also important."

"I believe that a fill for a road across Salmon Falls Creek would also help form a reservoir for water storage to use on the land to be served by such a road. It is possible that the Department of Agriculture would assist in this."

"The use of federal funds to develop land, improve recreation and put our water to beneficial use makes good sense and I intend to pursue it further."

Kramer noted that a memorial passed by the Idaho Legislature prompted the move by Sen. Jordan to request more funds for forest roads.

"When I am elected to the State Senate," he declared, "I will initiate a memorial to increase appropriations for BLM roads. Cooperation by the State Highway Commission could then get the job done."

Smylie Hit For Failures By Walker

POCATELLO (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Lloyd Walker accused Gov. Robert E. Smylie Saturday of failure to utilize Idaho brain power and Idaho's "vast, untapped ground water supply."

Walker, a Twin Falls attorney, called Idaho State University one of the fastest growing institutions of higher learning in the Intermountain West and said Idaho's large underground water supply is nearby.

"Nevertheless, we have done nothing to utilize either resource," Walker said, "and much less have we done anything to bring the brain power represented by Idaho State University to bear upon the problem of the underground water."

He promised to establish a center for the exploration and exploitation of underground water in the Snake River Basin if he is elected governor.

Walker spoke at a bi-partisan political rally at the Idaho Chamber of Commerce.

Overhaul Is Suggested on Nuclear Plan

—WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower proposes a drastic overhaul of the Atomic Energy Act to provide for the possible sale of nuclear weapons and submarines to North Atlantic defense nations.

As a former supreme commander of NATO, Eisenhower said he had felt, "We should seek authority to sell appropriate nuclear weapons to other governments under special conditions and arrangements — to be approved by the NATO organization — that could operate effectively in the defense of Europe."

He found it strange, he said, "that even though the Soviets long ago succeeded in developing a nuclear capability of great strength and efficiency we have been forced, by law, to keep any useful knowledge about the science from most of our partners in NATO."

Eisenhower also indicated the present level of American troops kept in Europe stems in part from failure of the allies to raise expected ground forces.

He said that while nothing should be done to antagonize the French people to make up the deficit from France's pullout from NATO's system, the other allies — especially Germany — should be encouraged to develop more military power.

Johnson administration policy continues to be committed to a maintenance of American troop strength in Europe. U.S. officials have been favoring greater defense efforts by the other NATO members, including Germany.

Fewer Youths Take Second Draft Test

By The Associated Press — Thousands of college students took draft deferment tests around the country Saturday but the total may have fallen below the 250,000 expected. In some places there were rows upon rows of empty rooms — one university had more test-ers than testees — and in other places there were not enough test papers to go around. Student demonstrators against the war in Viet Nam were relatively quiet.

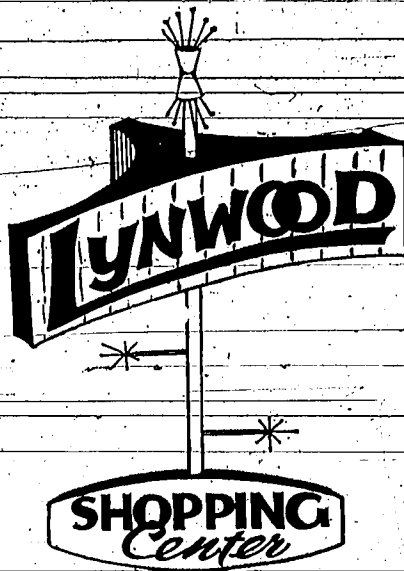

It was the second offering of the three-hour, 150-question examinations for volunteers who hope their scores will persuade their local draft boards that they should continue their studies.

The test is scheduled to be repeated for thousands of other students on June 3 and June 24. Officials conducting Saturday's tests said they were baffled by the low turnouts in some places. A University of Missouri spokesman in Kansas City suggested many students may have stayed away after Lt. Gen. Lewis Hershey, the Selective Service director, told a reporter in Dallas, Tex., that there are enough nonstudents and college

"Peace" Candidates Face Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Candidates seeking congressional nominations on "peace" platforms are finding rough going in primary elections. Some major tests will be ahead.

Only 3 of 14 House candidates who based their campaigns on advocacy of an early end to the Viet-Nam fighting have won primaries so far, all in normally Republican districts where their chances of being elected in November are considered slight.

At least 20 other "peace" candidates, virtually all Democrats, are seeking nomination in the House, and a few are trying for the Senate.

A number of Democratic congressmen face primary challenges because they support the administration's stand in Viet Nam.

The most clear-cut contest may be the one in Oregon Tuesday between Rep. Robert B. Duncan, an administration supporter, and former Federal Power Commissioner Howard Morgan, a Johnson critic, for the Democratic Senate nomination.

A similar contest is taking place for Duncan's House seat with former Rep. Charles O. Porter, an administration critic, opposing County Dist. Atty. William Fry, who supports the President, in the Democratic primary.

In Kentucky Tuesday, peace candidate Phillip V. Baker is rated an underdog to state Rep. Norbert Blum for the seat representing Rep. Charles P. Farley, a Democrat. The winner faces a tough fight against Republican William O. Cowger, former mayor of Louisville.

In Florida Tuesday a peace candidate, Joe Varner, is in a runoff Democratic primary against Quentin Long, Broward County state's attorney in the new 10th Dist. just north of Miami.

Nine peace candidates ran in last Tuesday's Pennsylvania primary. The only winner, Democrat William D. Senate, faces Republican Rep. Richard S. Schweiker in November.

In Ohio, two of three peace candidates ran May 3, but both face uphill races in November. Seldon D. Clark is running against GOP Rep. William E. Minshall in Cleveland's suburbs, while Dr. James H. Pelley, a Miami University professor, is competing in a new district against Donald E. (Burr) Lukens, the former National Young Republican president.

Both peace candidates seeking Democratic nominations in normally Republican districts were beaten in Indiana's May 3 primary.

Most of the peace candidates are running in the big population states — nine in California and eight in New York.

CLAY KEEPS WORLD HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE

Large Cut Over Challenger's Eye Ends Bout in Six

LONDON (AP)—Cassius Clay opened a huge gash over Henry Cooper's eye and stopped the British challenger midway in the sixth round Saturday night for the fourth successful defense of his heavyweight boxing championship. For five rounds, the sleek Negro champion from Louisville toyed with the cockney grocerman and then early in the sixth he lashed out with a thundering one-two combination.

McCovey-Led Giants Edge Mets by 4-3

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie McCovey hit a two-run homer and scored another run as the San Francisco Giants defeated the New York Mets 4-3 Saturday.

The Mets scored all their runs in the first inning, but McCovey made it 3-2 with his homer in the Giants' half of the inning.

He then triggered the Giants' two-run third-inning rally by beating out a slow roller. Jim Hart followed with a single. McCovey scored on a passed ball by John Stephenson and Hart scored on a single by Cap Peterson.

New York 300,000,000—3 11-0
San Francisco 202,000,000—4 7-1
Gardner and Stephenson; Bob Fitzsimmons reigned briefly before the turn of the century, took high hopes when Cooper, fighting from a flat-footed stance, forced the fight in the early rounds.

Moving in grimly, throwing his only dangerous weapon—a left—left he stunned Clay a couple of times with solid hits.

But the champion took them with hardly a flinch and almost insensibly danced away from the aggressive Briton.

The Associated Press scorecard gave Cooper the first two rounds, called the third even and gave the fourth and fifth to Clay.

Cooper pressed the fight from the first, acting like a man who must win in a hurry or not at all.

The Englishman connected with a sharp combination in the second round and bounced two lefts off the right hand near the end of the round, but the champion seemed unbothered.

Clay seemed to be pacing himself in the early rounds. Skipping around the ring counter-clockwise, he flicked out with a stinging left hand. He added another right—face—but brought no immediate knockdown.

Both fighters were warned by the referee for hitting low and hanging on. Clay twice for wrestling the Englishman away from him.

Clay, lacking his usual fire, started the sixth like the man who wrestled the crown. Sonny Liston at Miami Beach Feb. 23, 1964, and defended it successfully against Liston, Floyd Patterson and Canadian George Chuvalo.

In the early seconds of the sixth, the champion pressed Cooper into the corner and then lashed out with a right and left combination.

Cooper's knees didn't buckle but an ugly gash appeared over the Briton's left eye and blood poured out profusely.

The referee permitted another brief exchange before examining the wound. He looked and ordered the fighters to resume.

Then Clay began pecking away at the gash, and blood poured like a small river. Then Referee Smith gave in to mercy.

Cooper's body was smeared with blood and the canvas of the outdoor ring was splashed with red. His left eye was a gory mess.

Clay was relatively unmarked. "Clay," said afterward that "Cooper was hitting hard, harder than I looked. My job was to box, attack and move."

The champion, at a light 201½ pounds to 188 for Cooper, called the challenger a "fast, tough, determined fighter."

"It's unfortunate that he cuts so easily," Clay added. "I started with my best. Cooper was away from me. He kept me out. He hit awful hard. If he had cut me, it would've been hard to knock him out in time or 10 rounds."

"I was doing my best. Don't forget at 201, I was much lighter than I was for the Liston and Chuvalo fights. And I've been under so much pressure and strain from every angle."

Clay said his next title defense would be against Karl Mildenberger of Germany.

BLOOD POURS FROM THE FACE OF challenger Henry Cooper as world heavyweight champion Cassius Clay chops a right toward his cut face. Cooper blocked the blow in the sixth round shortly before the London bout was halted Saturday night. The referee stopped the action at 1:38 of the sixth. (AP wirephoto)

10 Drivers Qualify for Monday Race

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Al and Bobby Jones of the racing Albuquerque, N.M., family qualified cars for the golden anniversary 500-mile race Saturday on the old Indianapolis Motor Speedway, where their brother Jerry was killed in 1958.

All teammates of world champion Jimmy Clark of Scotland and the day's best average for the 10-mile runs—162.72 miles an hour—in a new Lotus-Ford. That was sixth best so far this year.

The 33-car starting field was filled tentatively by 10 new qualifiers and had a record average of 160.200 m.p.h. against 156.063 for last year's final lineup.

In final trials Sunday, a driver can squeeze into the lineup only by bumping the slowest man in the previous field. First man in danger of elimination will be rookie Al Pollard, Medford, Ore., who qualified at 156.063 last weekend.

Three rookies qualified Saturday in addition to five already in the field. Carl Williams of Kansas City, who wrecked a car a week earlier in an accident-marred session in which Chuck Rodeo of Indianapolis was killed, came back with the day's third best speed of 150.445.

Rookie Cale Yarborough, Charlotte, N.C., made an even quicker comeback from a relatively minor Friday wreck. He had the day's second best speed, 157.747. There were no serious accidents Saturday.

Winning their first conference title since 1958, the UCLA Bruins scored in all but two events of the 18 on the program at Stanford Stadium.

Two Named to Big Sky Team Third Time

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP)—For the third year in a row, Bill Suter of Gonzaga and Steve Kuharski of Idaho State have been named to the Big Sky all-conference baseball team.

Kuharski is a junior outfielder and Suter a senior third baseman.

League champion Idaho placed four men on the all-star lineup by two-time selection Bill Stoneman, a pitcher. Also named were catcher Wally Posey, shortstop Gary Johnson and center fielder Jim Spencer.

Runnerup Montana had first baseman Frank Spear on the team for the second season.

Rick Jaggars, Gonzaga pitcher, was also named for the second year.

Second baseman Ken Caputo and outfielder Clair Wadman, both of Weber State, were also on the all-conference squad. So was pitcher Tom Lundy of Idaho State.

Finished the 1½ miles in 1:40 2/3. She earned $35,040 for Harborview Stable and paid $5,600, $4,200 and $2,400.

Clay Sorry About Way Bout Ended

LONDON (AP)—"I didn't want it to end like that," Cassius Clay said. "I don't like doing this to anybody. It's against my religion. It's against my feelings."

Clay was back in his dressing room after opening an eight-stitch cut over the left eye of Henry Cooper and stopping the Briton in 1:38 of the sixth round of their world heavyweight championship fight Saturday night.

The sleek, young champion from Louisville, Ky., was smeared with the blood of the Cockney challenger, whose face was a gory mess when the fight was stopped. Blood had spattered all over the ring and on to the newspaper of reporters at ringside.

"I don't mind admitting I was a bit disturbed by all that blood," Clay said. "I didn't really want the violence to continue. I don't really like hurting anyone, especially my religion, as I said."

Clay is a Black Muslim and has appealed his draft board classification of I-A on the ground he is a conscientious objector.

Clay, who appeared scarcely out of breath, added: "Cooper did very well there for a while. He hurt me with one left in the third round."

"It was a left, and then a right and a right that did the damage to Cooper's eye. It was the same sort of punch that cut up old (Sonny) Liston in our first title fight."

"The immediate future is not clear. I could be meeting Karl Mildenberger of Germany. Or it could be Doug Jones. On the score it looks more like Jones."

"The fight was harder than I expected for those first five rounds."

Cooper said he was convinced that it was a blow by Clay's head—a butt—that opened the deep, three-inch gash over his eye.

A doctor treated Cooper for 25 minutes in his dressing room before allowing newsmen to enter.

"It is a very bad, deep, long cut, and it will need at least eight stitches," Dr. Paul Saville said.

Cooper was far from despondent over his showing.

"I thought I won the early rounds," he said. "I got in one strong left hook to the chin in the third and I was forcing the fight all the time."

Although there was a small crowd estimated at about 12,000 and a $100,000 gate, the new promoters, Combat, Inc., had guaranteed Torres $75,000 and Thornton $25,000.

Torres Decks Thornton Twice, Wins in Breeze

NEW YORK (AP)—Light heavyweight champion Jose Torres hit tough Wayne Thornton with every punch in the book and scored two first-round knockdowns Saturday night on the way to a lopsided unanimous decision in a rough 15-round title bout. Thornton broke most of the rules and kept referee Johnny Lo Blanco busy most of the night warning him for his infractions in the first fight ever held in Shea Stadium.

Torres raked Thornton's body with left-right barrage and left him sagging on the ropes from a right-hand punch in the first round. Thornton, the No. 1 challenger from Fresno, Calif., went down on his back, and rolled over. He barely made it up at eight.

The Puerto Rican-born New Yorker swarmed over Thornton and hammered him with both hands. When Wayne retreated to his own corner, unable to defend himself, the referee began to count again. He went all the way for the mandatory eight-count before letting them go at it again.

A small crowd turned out on a perfect night for the first outdoor fight in New York since Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson in 1960.

Although Torres never again dropped Thornton he raked him mercilessly in the eighth and drove home nine straight punches in the ninth.

The champ fought in spurts, whenever he could get his left hand loose from Thornton, who tried to hold that dangerous eight stitches," Dr. Paul Saville said.

Oregon Stops Beavers Twice

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—Home runs by Dennis Baldrige and Dale Ehler paced Oregon to a 2-1 doubleheader sweep over the State Saturday, ending the Beavers' season for both schools.

Baldrige hit a two-run homer in the third inning of the first game.

Ehler's shot came in the bottom of the sixth of the second game with a man on base. That erased a 1-0 Oregon State lead and proved Oregon's margin of victory.

CRYDER BREAKS STATE POLE VAULT MARK

T.F. Soph Hits 13 Feet, 6 3/4 Inches; Boise Cops Crown as Tipton Shines

BOISE—Sophomore Scott Cryder, Twin Falls, pushed the pole vault record to 13 feet, 6 3/4 inches and Idaho's lousiest distance record to the doubling, the 20-foot, 6-inch mark, Saturday in the class A division of the State Track and Field Championships, won again by the Boise Braves. The Braves again were sparked by slender Gary Tipton who took three first places and smashed the 440-yard mark down to a very respectable 48.1.

Devlin Has Bad Day, But Keeps Big Lead

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Australian Bruce Devlin called a penalty on himself and took three more bogeys on finishing holes Saturday but still held his lead of three strokes in the $110,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament. He shot a par 70 for a 205 over 54 holes. Gene Littler remained in second place, firing a par 70 for 208. The third round finished in bright, hot sunshine after a delay of an hour and a half in starting because of rain.

Devlin started with birdies on two and four but took a bogey on the sixth hole when he called a penalty shot against himself for accidentally striking the ball while it was in a trap. But he bopped a birdie on nine and another on 11 and pulled to eight-under-par for the distance.

Then came his lapse that saw him take bogeys on 13, 15 and 17 as the temperature soared to 87 degrees, with high humidity. Devlin's 205 was 10 strokes over the tournament record for 54 holes, set by Clayton Heafner in 1948.

As the 7,123-yard Colonial Country Club course dried out from the terrific rains of early morning, the scores dipped accordingly.

Tied for third at 210 were Jack McGowan, who shot a 68; R. H. Sikes, who had a 67, and Gay Brewer, who had 68.

Tigers Rally In Fifth to Edge Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Detroit Tigers scored six runs in the fourth inning, threw out a homer by Don Demeter, and defeated the Baltimore Orioles 7-3 Saturday night behind the four-hit pitching of Donny McLain. The game was called because of rain in the last half of the ninth.

McLain won his seventh game against a single loss once he settled down after the Orioles erupted for four runs in the first inning—three on Brooks Robinson's homer and the other on Curt Blefary's homer.

Lapwai, Parma Beat Wendell for Team Trophies

BOISE—Raft River Junior Dana Tracy grabbed two individual titles and Murlough's Mike Love joined him in the winner's circle Saturday during the state Class B track and field championships but the Wendell Trojans paid the price of letting school-out-a-week-too-early and wound up third in the team race behind champion Lapwai and runner-up Parma. Sharing individuals honors with Tracy and Love was Doclo, who won 10 points with seconds in the 110 and 220-yard relays and a third in the broad jump.

It was a gloomy day in the Wendell camp as the Trojans, expected to pile up from 27 to 35 points, ran into trouble everywhere and garnered only 18 points with the 24 while Parma, thoroughly shocked in regional last week by the Trojans, moved into second with 22.

Wendell wasn't ailing but its relay strength, the thing expected to carry them easily, the 440-yard relay as expected, but thanks only to a great finishing leg by Murray Mall, it got third in the quartet and mile relays, despite being favored in both.

Part of the problem could be traced to the early ending of school, the seniors not being required to attend classes last week. Although they practiced each day, their daily regimen was upset. Senior hurdler Dan Peterson summed it up: "I just couldn't run. My legs felt jelly."

There was also heartbreak for two defending champions, Mike Matthews, Doclo, in the pole vault and Larry Johnson, Galt, in the 440-yard dash. Matthews was beaten out at 12 feet, 6 inches by Craig Bohman, Troy A-pulped thigh muscle hampered the 110-meter star who said "It's no excuse. I should have done better." He had cleared 13 feet in practice the past two weeks.

Johnson ran into a bent out of Clearwater Valley, Baldwin, Baldwin ran into the first quarter of the two-mile run in a jiffy of 4:30, which would have won the mile run. He then sped on to a 9:00 record-breaking time while Johnson, probably below 10, couldn't match the early pace. However, Johnson has taken medals at the last three state meets and thus concludes an outstanding career.

Love's victory came in the 220-yard relay when he teamed with Mike Matthews, Doclo, in the pole vault and Larry Johnson, Galt, in the 440-yard dash. KAUAI KING CLOSES IN ON TRIPLE CROWN

Favored Horse Comes Off Pace for Preakness Win; Stupendous Is Second

BALTIMORE (AP) — Kauai King, the front running winner of the Kentucky Derby, came from off the pace Saturday and won the $181,500 Preakness to move within one victory of the coveted triple crown for three-year-old thoroughbreds. Taking the lead with a little more than one eighth of a mile to go, the Maryland-bred son of Native Dancer-Sweepin' charged to the wire for a two-length victory over Stupendous.

FROM ALL ANGLES

BY LARRY HOVEY

It would appear that athletic relations between Twin Falls and Burley high schools have reached a conclusion—at least for regular season football and basketball games.

It all started about a week ago when Twin Falls Athletic Director M. C. Eden, who has been trying to schedule the Bobcats in football for the past couple of years, wrote a letter stating that if the rivalry would be played in football, Twin Falls would not play the Bobcats in basketball.

Late this past week he received a letter from Burley requesting that the basketball contact be returned, signed or unsigned. Eden returned it unsigned.

The matter will not affect the tournament season where Twin Falls and Burley are in the same classification and are required by the state association to play for the regional A-championship.

Eden justifies his move by noting "Burley and Twin Falls are in the same classification in basketball and since they are two of the larger schools in this area, a full rivalry would be a natural. I realize Twin Falls is larger but Burley is large enough to compete with us. They turn out good football teams and would probably beat us about as often as we beat them."

Talking about also, Burley is larger than Caldwell and Caldwell is in our league. I just think the two schools should be playing football and I thought this would be a way to resolve it one way or another.

We also discussed the possibility with Coach Rulon Budge sometime ago and Budge was against the idea.

"We'll be happy to play Twin Falls as soon as they do away with that summer football program," Budge said. "I've got nothing against Twin Falls in reference to the summer physical fitness class that is part of Twin Falls' summer school curriculum. A large majority of the football players do enroll in the class."

The changes of Twin Falls abandoning the class are slim, however, since all the Southern Idaho Conference teams have them and it is those clubs the Bruins play for championships.

Saturday's state track meet, blessed with a pretty good day with only a little wind—perfect compared with last year's deluge—came up with some great records. The assault came in the distances and these were the real eye-eyes on the state record books.

There is no need wondering why the records continue to fall every year. It should be sufficient to report that Nampa has what it calls the "100 miles per week club" and we're sure you've already guessed the only membership requirement. Saturday it paid off with record-setting victories in the mile and two-mile runs plus a second place in the two-mile dash.

The difference between the track stars yesterday and today is that today's work.

"The workout we gave our milers 10 years ago is considerably less than the workouts we schedule for our quarter-milers now," reports Twin Falls Coach Jerry Kleinkopf—who has no one running 100 miles a week yet.

"I think this training shows up in places other than the record book," he continued. "We don't have the pulled muscles now we had several years ago or the other nursing things that can hamper a boy."

Of course, there's more specializing now, too. The 10.3 sprinter who was running in the preliminaries and then getting dressed to watch the track meet 10 years ago today is breaking records in the distances. For instance, Nampa's Coach Buck McGillivray reports that Gary Hills, who ran a 4:20.4 mile Saturday, can turn the 100-yard dash in 10.3 and the 220-yard dash in 22.5. Both would place him in the sprinting class.

Switching to the mile the boy can register a time that is noteworthy.

Stupendous, Amherold was another 4 1/2 lengths back for third place in the field of nine.

Kauai King, owned by Michael J. Ford of Omaha, Neb., thus moved into position where he needs only a victory in the Belmont Stakes June 4 to become the first Triple Crown winner since Citation did it in 1948.

The victory in the 91st Preakness, run on a bright, sunny day before 30,114, was worth $120,000 and boosted the King's bankroll for the year to $308,027.

Kauai King jumped out in front at the start, just as he did in the Kentucky Derby. But Stupendous, from Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Wheatley Stable, took after him and shortly after they had gone a quarter of a mile Stupendous went ahead under the guidance of Braulio Boeza.

Don Brumfield, 20-year-old Kentuckian up on the King, made no effort to regain the lead as Stupendous reeled off the first six furlongs in 1:10 3/5. As much as two lengths separated them down the back stretch, with Blue Skyer and Indulto closest in pursuit.

With one-half mile to go, Brumfield made his challenge. He moved within one length of Stupendous rounding the bend, drew even at the quarter pole and 1-16 of a mile later was out in front.

After Stupendous had reeled off a sizzling early pace, the mile was clocked in 1:24 2/5 and Kauai King hit the finish line in 1:33 2/5. The record of 1:34 3/5 for the 1 3/16 miles was established by Nashua in 1935.

As the favorite, Kauai King paid $4, $3, and $2.40. Stupendous, who has failed three times to beat the King, paid $3.60 and $3.40. Amherold, owned by Reginald Webster and ridden by Bill Boland, paid $3.80 to show.

Back of the first three horses in order came Rehabilitate, Indulto, Advocate, Exceedingly, Understanding and Blue Skyer. Advocate and Blue Skyer were the big disappointments since they had finished two-three respectively behind Kauai King in the Kentucky Derby.

"When Stupendous started to run with me, I wasn't worried one bit," Brumfield said. "I didn't lay a stick on the King or say a word until going around the final turn when I gave him a couple of cracks with the whip and he took off."

"In the middle of the home stretch when my horse started to lay in a little bit on Stupendous I hit the King left-handed and he pulled off so that I had him well in hand as we went across the finish."

The time was the second fastest in Preakness history. Almost from the start, it was a two-horse race with Stupendous going after the favorite just as trainer Eddie Neely had indicated he would.

Second place was worth $38,000, third $15,000 and fourth $7,500.

Kauai King was not nominated for the 1 1/2 mile Belmont Stakes, but Ford said the $10,000 supplementary fee would be in New York officials' hands within a few days. The horse accompanied by Ford will leave here Tuesday and will be quartered at Belmont Park.

The winning margin was announced as two lengths, but the official chart called later ruled it was 1 1/2 lengths.

BEAUMONT, TEX. (AP) — The second round of the 54-hole $9,000 Babe Zaharias Open Golf Tournament was postponed Saturday because of wet grounds.

complex in his first official visit to the Bay Area.

Asked "no longer the Bay Area could support two major league clubs profitably," he replied, "I can't answer that, prior to evaluation."

Eckert inherited the Milwaukee-Atlanta franchise squabble, which already was in litigation when he succeeded Ford Frick. It still is in the courts.

"I've hoped it would be settled to the satisfaction of both cities," he said. "The case will be reviewed next month. Let's see what the Wisconsin anti-trust law means. If a decision is handed down in the right court, baseball will abide by it."

A Wisconsin judge has ruled that the Braves must be moved back to Milwaukee or an expansion club be put in the city next year.

Asked if Milwaukee would get preferential treatment if expansion comes, Eckert said, "I wouldn't be prejudiced against it, but I think other interested cities should be equally considered — Oakland, San Diego, Seattle, New Orleans, Toronto. The qualifications of these cities should be evaluated."

He pointed out that the major league has expanded 25 per cent.

County-City Building Plan Is Discussed

RUPERT — Several resolutions concerning the proposed joint county-city law enforcement building were approved during the Tuesday evening meeting of the Rupert City Council.

Resolutions approved included the use of general obligation bonds for financing the building and that a fiscal agent be hired; that the city cooperate fully with the county on the proposed facility, include a civil defense facility in the building and that the mayor be authorized to sign the operational agreement with the county to bring the proposal before the electors.

Plans for the building have been drawn up by the architectural firm of Dropping and Kelly, Boise, and the building, according to present plans, will be erected north of the present jail. The building is to include office space for police, state patrolmen and the county sheriff.

Larry Duff and Grant Catmull, representing the parks committee, discussed plans for future development for the city's parks.

The council directed the committee to prepare a full analysis of the park needs and name a supervisor for the group and present findings to the council.

Councilmen authorized Elmer Schenk, city electrician, to order lights to complete the planned street-lighting. Schenk reported on work completed thus far and the availability of purchasing street lighting fixtures. Mayor Wendell Johnson reported that members of the Desert Art Guild had met with him and discussed the feasibility of including space for art exhibits in the proposed recreation building to be completed this summer.

The Ministerial Association, represented by Rev. Don Enders, asked the council to consider the possibility of delaying the summer recreational program two weeks. The present arrangement interferes with Bible classes offered children by various churches in the area.

The council also approved including weight lifting in the varied summer program now offered in the county.

Discussion was held on the proposed building to house bulk chlorine at the sewer plant. It was decided that chlorine would be ordered in larger quantities and plans for the building will be presented at the next meeting of the council.

Building permits were approved for addition of room and bath at a cost of $2,000 for D. W. Smith; new home to be built at 1302 E St. at a cost of $15,000 for Melvin D. Kainer; the moving of a small metal building for storage for Dan Howarth on Onelda at a cost of $1,000; remodeling of a home for Ed Engert at 508 S. D St. and a new garage to be built at 914 6th St. for Ira Trantham at a cost of $500.

Flying at Joslin Field Is Booming; Oldster Decides He'll Rejoin First Love

By O. A. (Gus) KELKER
Times-News Feature Editor

It started as a more or less routine feature story delving into what was behind the big surge of flying interest at Joslin Field. It resulted in my falling in love again.

I'm not quite sure how it all happened, but it did. First stop in the story quest was Reeder Flying Service, now authorized by the federal government to teach practically any flight course you can dream up.

Looking back, it must have been that first stop! Those planes sure looked nice, all painted up fancy-like, and with upholstery which spelled luxury, and instruments galore which spelled safety.

I should never have listened to Charles Reeder, the service owner, or Kenneth Hepner, the chief pilot.

"Why not a little flight around the field just to see if you can still do it?" they asked in unison.

The hop was made and I was in love all over again. Over a period of about a month one thing rapidly led to another. The commercial pilot license which I had first earned back about 1942 was renewed by the government.

A physical test was passed after two local doctors looked me over from head to toe. An application was made for a radio operator's permit, and it was approved.

It just had to end up this way. In high school I was always the one who ran to a window to look at every plane which flew over. I still look up at every one I hear. I just can't help it.

It was back in 1930 — the date was Jan. 16 — that I made my first solo flight. I took a half-year out of the junior year in high school to turn the trick, but still made up the class loss and was graduated on time and had sense enough to go on to college, because flying then was in the barnstorming days and not the money days.

Flying was pretty consistent from then on through World War II, during which time such talents as were available were used as Air Corps (now Air Force) flight instructor. After that things went pretty well, until about nine years ago the love seemed to fade and we (my first love and I) drew apart.

Then came that visit to Joslin Field — and this pesky story, and here we go again. But it is fun and I wouldn't have it any other way.

Hepner laughs as he instructs me in the new styles of flight in the new planes and behind the new motors and instruments. Boy, what a lot to learn again, but like the swimmer away from water for years and years — when he falls in he can paddle.

Coming back to the original motivation — behind the airport

Old-New

Kenneth Hepner, flight instructor, whipping O. A. (Gus) Kelker, Times-News feature editor, into flyable shape had a big smile on his face.

As a pilot goes he is at the top level in experience, but he never heard of some of the planes Kelker flew years ago in the "early days."

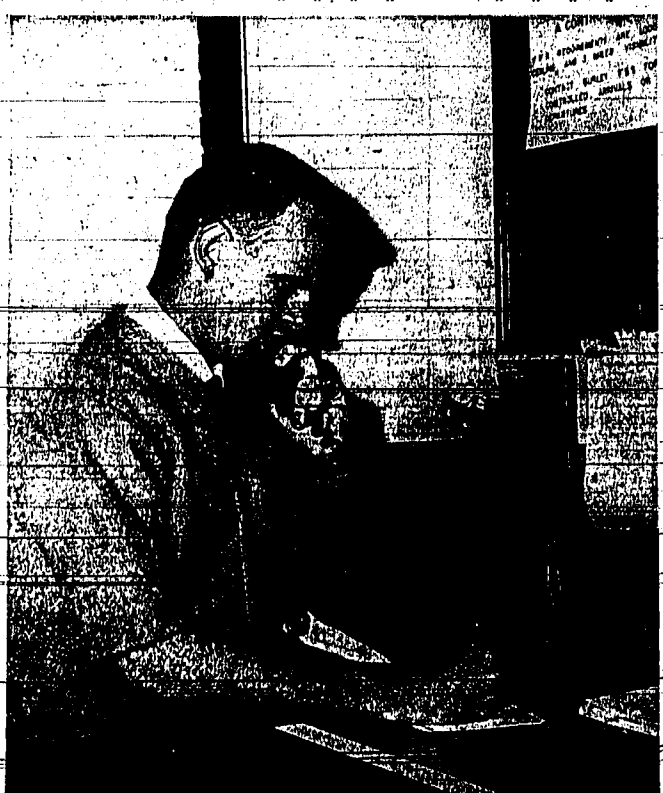

His government flight license number is 1233,859. Kelker's is 307,038. They are issued in sequence as the fliers come along. The lower the number, the older the pilot. Kelker soloed before Hepner was born. But Hepner had what he thought was a good explanation as to who was instructing whom.

"It just proves that you can still teach an old dog new tricks," he declared.

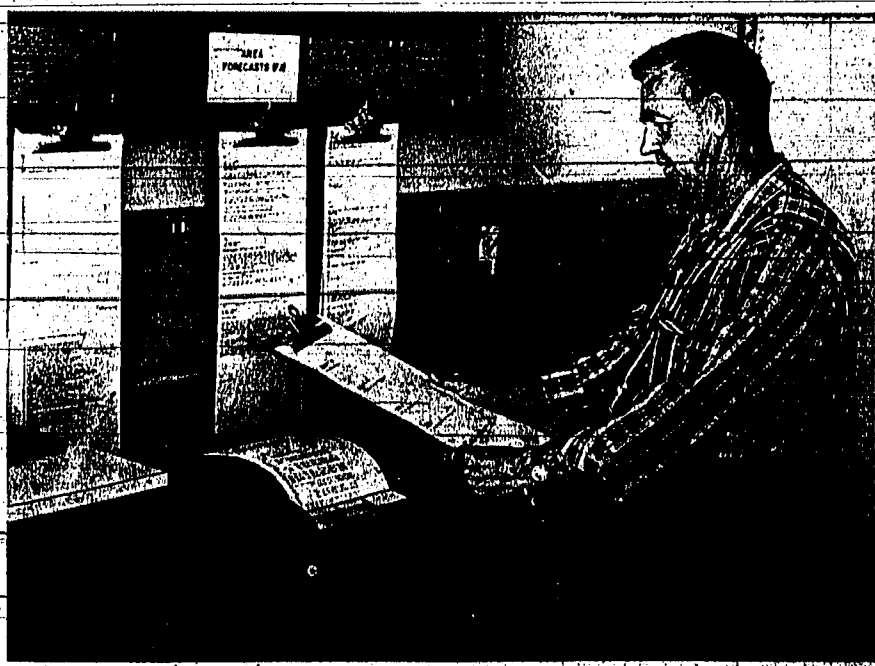

visit, I did find out, now that I'll be flying again (this time for pleasure and not for profit) I'll have lots of company in the hobby.

The first big upsurge in aviation came after World War I, but it was short lived. Then, prior to and immediately after World War II, the activity was much greater, but once again it faded. Then everything broke loose and today aviation — both private and commercial — is spreading like wildfire. "In fact it is so much of everyday life that it is taken practically for granted in Twin Falls, where Joslin Field is the

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

"What Are Your Harvest Prospects?"

By REV. EUGENE TJARKS
Our Savior Lutheran Church
Many farmers in the Magic Valley watch the spring irrigation water forecasts carefully. For those who would have a limited supply of water available, it meant cutting back the number of acres they could plant to crops.

The wise farmer knows it is best to do the job well on a part of his farm, or to utilize his whole farm. God says in His Word, "The point is this: he who sows sparingly will also reap sparingly, and he who sows bountifully will also reap bountifully." (2 Corinthians 9:6) A farmer who plants only half his land, expects only half a harvest. He may sow sparingly out of necessity. God does not require us to be stingy in our love toward others.

That is the value of sowing. God calls to our attention by these words in II Corinthians. It is a peculiar phenomenon in all our activity with God, that He richly blesses whatever we put out—our hand in doing. This is found to be true when we seek to help those who are underprivileged, and less fortunate than we are. Our efforts are blessed by the Lord, and we receive a great return for our investment.

In the Old Testament, there was a certain widow who used the last of the oil in her pitcher and the final cup of meal from the barrel to make Elijah some cakes. Though she knew this was the last of the food, she gave it to him, and as a result the Lord provided an endless supply of oil and meal for the duration of the famine in which she found herself.

Should you give a can of beans to a poor family, you won't necessarily find another can on the shelf. It is a question of money, but God will see that you do reap a bountiful harvest.

Just the opposite is also promised. The one who fails to be generous in sowing, reaps a meager harvest. A practical individual might ask, "How can my gift of clothing or food or money to a poor person return to me?" Without God's intervention, it won't come back. But if we sow in the spirit of love and concern, we will reap a rich return.

What are your harvest prospects? When we are slow-kindness where there is hate, peace is surely to be reaped. A gift to help the one in need will fill us with gratitude for our abundance.

Money given to extend the boundaries of the Kingdom of God should bring us satisfaction. A word spoken about Christ and a life lived in faith will bring a soul to salvation. In the words of Jesus, "Give and it will be given to you; good measure, pressed down, shaken together, running over, will be put into your lap. For the measure you give will be the measure you get back." (Luke 6:38)

Jesus is not just talking about money, but about our whole relationship with others. This becomes apparent when we notice the verses that come before this saying. They speak of judging others, and forgiving those who have wronged us.

Jesus becomes the example of God's ability to fulfill His promise of a good harvest. Jesus gave Himself for man's eternal benefit, and as a reward, "He ascended into heaven, and sitteth on the right hand of God the Father almighty." (Apostle's Creed)

A similar position, with God in heaven, awaits those who share their faith in God, their love like Jesus' love, and their God-given possessions. What better harvest could one desire to reap? What are your harvest prospects?

HEAR Ye! with (dealer name)

If you plan to be a self-made man, don't leave out any of the working parts. There is a strange relation between hearing and certain times of the day. We hear best at 7 a.m. in the morning. Tests show that there is a definite falling off of hearing ability right after meals, and that our hearing is worst at 1 p.m.

The pioneers who fought taxation without representation should see it with representation.

Reviewing some of the new hearing aid models just introduced by Maico, I realized that never before have we had such a complete line of hearing aids. No matter what your type of hearing loss, how slight or severe it might be, I can show you a quality aid that will help you hear better. Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Three years ago when Steen Englyng, Denmark, met Lloyd Hansen, SHOSHONE, in Denmark, little did young Englyng dream that he would soon be living in the United States, not to mention living in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hansen, Shoshone, calling Lloyd Hansen's parents, his second parents, and even graduating from Shoshone High School. The young men met with circumstances of missionary work of young Hansen, who was then serving a mission in Denmark for the LDS Church. Steen's mother and older brother had met the missionaries first and told Steen about their visit. The family belonged to no church, which is a popular thing in Denmark, Steen points out.

After the family joined the LDS Church, and the father decided he would like to take his family to another country, one of the elders of the Church suggested California and assisted with arrangements. Lloyd Hansen was one of the people who waved goodbye to the Englyng family from their native land on July 4, 1964, when they set sail for the United States. They went to El Monte, Calif., where Englyng followed his trade of cabinet maker.

Steen lived in California with his family for one and a half years, but found the heavily populated area strange after living in the small town of Alorod, Denmark. Located 17 miles north of Copenhagen on the island of Sjælland, there were about 6,000 people there. He has taken about three years of English language while in Denmark, but it didn't help too much when he arrived in this country. However, he did learn rapidly and there is little hint of his native dialect in his conversation today. When he reported for school in California, he was placed in his junior year of high school.

In Denmark he had just finished the 8th grade and started what would be termed the high school. There, however, the students to schedule classes a week and only have seven weeks summer vacation. Only in the summer like we know it here in Magic Valley, either. He said the climate there the year around is about the same as here in Magic Valley, with the temperature never going too high.

Steen will go back to California with his mother and a cousin who came for graduation. He and his mother are hoping to make a trip to Denmark this summer to visit his no desire to return to Denmark to live, however. After school was out last spring Mr. and Mrs. Hansen and their son, Lloyd, who had returned from the mission to Denmark, a year and gone to Brigham Young University to school last year, and their daughter Karen, made a trip to California.

While there, Lloyd had the family visit his friends, the Englyngs. Steen was invited to visit the Hansen family during summer vacation. He did and liked it very well in Shoshone. The Hansens then invited him to return to Shoshone to attend school his senior year. After making the trip back to California, attending a visit to two of school and thinking about the invitation to come back to Shoshone, Steen decided to take up the invitation.

At that particular time Mr. and Mrs. Hansen had just been seriously injured in an automobile accident. It was difficult for them to get around and take care of themselves, but Steen wanted to come and he did many of the things they were unable to do and acted as their errand boy.

They have all come to feel very close to one another and with the daughter, Karen, in college this year and Lloyd having just finished his senior year at Shoshone, Steen has filled an empty spot in the family home. Lloyd is taking his training at San Diego at this time.

Hansen's third child, Larry, died suddenly a year ago in February shortly after his 38th birthday.

TWENTY-FOUR YEARS ago this picture was snapped of O. A. (Gus) Kelker, Times-News feature editor, when he was an active flight instructor pilot. In contrast with the outfit he wore then, in an open cockpit plane, present day pilots wear business clothing. The helmet and goggles, the heavy flying suit and the parachute have all but disappeared from the private flying scene.

INSTRUMENT BOARD on modern trainer leaves little to be desired. Today's fliers are trained in their use and all are designed to make private flying safe. Practically all planes today, for instance, are equipped with two-way radio. (Times-News photo)

EARLY TRAINING plane sported an instrument panel with a bare minimum of dials which were of benefit to the pilot. In this picture the "stick," which has been replaced with a flight wheel, is also noted. (Times-News photo)

ing appears here to stay. It is developing into a way of life and transportation.

The early trainers would hit 70 miles an hour in a dive. Today's trainers whip along at an easy 110 miles an hour and private planes streaking along at around 200 miles an hour are common. The age of flight has come to stay.

The airlines are going to the left and the day is not far distant when feeder airlines will become more important than ever as the trunk carriers get larger. The little planes—four to eight passenger ones—will hit all the little towns and funnel the traffic into the major terminals.

It has changed since I first flew 36 years ago, but the romance is still there. There is nothing to compare with it. There is nothing like that first love.

Really, I'm not going to create much of a stir in flying circles, but I'm glad I'm back.

second busiest in the state. Only Boise's municipal field is ahead of Twin Falls in the amount of air traffic.

Twin Falls, on the other hand, rates ahead of Idaho Falls and Pocatello. All traffic at the local field during the past 12 months added up to a big 32,240 units against 31,601 for Idaho Falls and 28,788 for Pocatello.

Two flying clubs operate at Joslin, including the Twin Falls Glider, the oldest organized in the state. The newest is the Skyhawk Flying Club.

Records at the office of Edwin C. Woods, airport manager, show there are 62 planes which call Twin Falls home. This number does not include six helicopters. Value of all these units would total more than $1-million.

Local businesses make use of air transportation, with many operating company planes. Included in this category are Sierra Life Insurance Co. with two twin-engine ships; Wagner Livestock and Trucking Co.; Aslett Construction Co.; Volvo Builders Supply; Kirkman Bros. Transportation Co.; Twin Falls Tractor and Implement Co.; Dotwell Bros.; Willis Motor Co. and Troy National Laundry.

There are 23 hangars on the field in addition to the modern administration building which houses facilities for the company owners. Two floors include Melvin and Artell Aslett, Garth and Dick Kirkman, Louis Svobak and Gene Glenn, the latter two with Twin Falls Tractor.

When I made my first solo those 36 years ago it was page one news in the hometown paper. Now first solo flights at the field here, for instance, go practically unnoticed.

For years only about 15 percent of the adult population of the nation had ever taken a flight. Today more than 40 percent have taken at least one commercial trip.

In the early days ground school and flight instruction was a matter of opinion and varied with the individual instructor. Today it is standardized, and local students receive the same detailed and specific instruction as do the fliers in the big aviation centers.

First two graduates of the Reader School under the new full curriculum are Steve Lee, Gooding, and Myrl Schroeder, Filer. They had their private licenses by the time they had studied 30 days.

Calvin Shoom, Kimberly, who had never flown before, started in the local school April 14, 1965, and is now a graduate of the instrument flight division.

He had his commercial license, instrument, multi-engine and flight instructor written test and when it is all completed—and before too long—he hopes to sign on as an airline pilot.

William (Bill) Warfield, with the split home of Twin Falls and Halley, was graduated from the commercial school after an intensive 30-day course. He will get his instrument rating in another 30 days and then will enter business aviation.

The type of flier at the local field ranges from this to that—and from old to young. Youngest is 17 and oldest over 80 years. There are service station workers, doctors, policemen, lawyers, businessmen, farmers, cattlemen, executives, company presidents and even housewives.

The list will grow because the flying interest which is now the STEP-UP IN DEVELOPMENT of a 154-inch diameter fiberglass-reinforced plastic rocket motor case is shown here in a late stage. When completed, the case will be filled with water in a hydrostatic proof test and will hold 780 pounds per square inch internal pressure. The motor was fired recently at the Thikol Chemical Corp., Wasatch Division, near Brigham City, Utah. It developed approximately 325,000 pounds of thrust.

Writer Details Rocket Motor Test Witnessed in Brigham City Area

By BOB MAGEE

The first trip but to view the rocket motor to be static tested near Brigham City, Utah, turned out to be somewhat of a failure, although the buses in which the viewers were riding got within about a half-mile of the motor and its altitude simulation system (diffuser).

The group could get no closer, as the fueling of the nozzle (used for guidance) was still in process and the air was not clear of the toxic nitrogen tetroxide. This liquid fuel was used to demonstrate a liquid injection thrust vector control, the first time nitrogen tetroxide was used with a large expansion ratio nozzle.

At first glance out the window of the bus, the rocket motor looked as if it was at least 100 feet long, but during the briefing session, earlier that morning, it was pointed out that the rocket motor was only 21 feet in length, including the submerged nozzle.

The diffuser, the only part of the test apparatus that could be seen protruding from the bunker, was connected to the business portion of the motor, giving it its lengthy appearance. The diffuser, some 83 feet long, simulated the atmosphere at approximately 40,000 feet.

The rocket motor and diffuser, static tested in a horizontal position, completed a series of flight-weight motor tests conducted by Thikol Chemical Corp., Wasatch Division, and the U.S. Air Force Space Systems Division. The final tests of this large solid rocket motor series took place at the Thikol plant near Brigham City, Utah.

The firing of the huge 154-inch diameter fiberglass-reinforced plastic rocket motor was termed highly successful, even though the diffuser burned through early in the firing in an "unexpected" place.

The motor, designed for use as an upper stage of a launch vehicle, generated approximately 325,000 pounds of thrust during a 110-second firing. It consumed some 128,000 pounds of solid propellant during that period.

Prior tests in this series were conducted with two 156-inch diameter motors and one 120-inch motor. The first firing was of a 78-foot, 156-inch motor in December of 1964 which developed some 1,400,000 pounds of thrust.

The second was another 156-inch motor about 100 feet long in February, 1965. It developed three million pounds of thrust. The 120-inch motor which was about eight feet longer than this one, developed 550,000 pounds of thrust.

The first two motors used nickel maraging steel for the case material and the third used mild steel. The one tested this year used the fiberglass-reinforced plastic, the largest ever without a type of case, cracks, and other things. One of the largest of its type to be fired, it also was the first 156-inch diameter solid propellant motor to be tested with a diffuser.

After a short wait on the buses, it was decided that the group should return to the main plant for a luncheon. After a 15-minute wait (which lasted about a half hour) the group was treated to an excellent meal which consisted of a large piece of roast beef or fish, several different types of salads, soups, baked potatoes, and Chinese peas.

Directly after the meal the guests, press, plant personnel and Air Force observers (estimated at 250) were bused to the observation area, 5,200 feet from the test site. The countdown began about 12:50 p.m. and went down at minute intervals.

Everyone was ready by the time the count reached one minute. The motion picture cameras were in place and manned by representatives from the three Salt Lake City television stations. The still photographers for the area newspapers rechecked their focus and light settings as the count neared zero.

The cameras started rolling and clicking as the tail end of the diffuser burst into an extremely bright white flame. Seconds later the dull roar of the exhaust came rumbling down the slight incline to the observation area.

The dark, yellowish brown smoke already was rising from the tail end of the flame, which carried some 100 feet beyond the end of the diffuser. By the time the 110-second test was finished the smoke reached several hundred feet into the atmosphere and started drifting in a southerly direction—toward the observation area.

After the engine expired and the roaring had gone its way, a short flame—about 10-feet long—continued burning at the end of the diffuser, trailing a small stream of black smoke into the air. As the smoke cleared from the test area somewhat, numerous small grass fires directly behind the rocket motor, where the flame had just been, could be seen.

MADONNA LILIES: If your Madonna lilies were a failure last year, they just as bad this year if you don't protect them. Botrytis blight is the villain which bothers lilies, peonies and tulips. Causes reddish-brown spots on foliage, these run-together-killing the entire leaves.

Unopened buds rot and any flowers which open take on a water-soaked appearance and wither. Buds and root parts are not affected.

CONTROL: Clean up the lily bed and burn all trash since the fungus overwinters in debris. Crowded plants are highly susceptible, so avoid crowding. Keep new growth covered with Bordeaux mixture, zinc or Captan. Less susceptible lilies are Regal, Hanson, Martagon and Auratum.

PEONIES can be protected with the same chemicals from the same disease. Young shoots topple over and buds turn brown or black, never opening. Never use manure for tulips, lilies or peonies as it contains botrytis spores. Botrytis is worse in damp weather, so be sure that the new parts are well protected with one of the above chemicals.

Next fall clean up the plant bed, cutting off all old stems and burning them. Do not add to the compost pile.

APRICOTS: Why is it that when the fruit of a sweet cherry tree, peach or apricot or plum, begins to ripen it rots and drops off? This is due to brown rot, a fungus disease. Commercial growers prevent the problem by covering the young fruit with a fungicide such as Captan. You can do the same thing when the fruit is about the size of a marble.

SQUASH NOTES: Even if you have a small garden you can still grow squash, melons, cucumbers and even gourds on a wire trellis. Don't worry about the wire trellis or fence getting hot enough to burn the vines.

Squash likes a well-fed soil, good drainage and full sun. It will yield tremendously all summer if fruits are picked frequently. Production is reduced if fruit is left to grow large on the vine. Fruit is best to eat when still small, about four to six inches in diameter, and the outer layers are broken, split or flaky in appearance. Next, thin out the young canes, spacing them about every six inches. The remainder canes can be cut back to the height of your hips.

HOLLYHOCKS: Don't wait until hollyhock rust hits your plants. It'll be too late. Start in now to keep your plants healthy. Dust or spray the undersides of the leaves (and top surfaces) with sulfur dust, zinc or captan.

WATERING HOUSE PLANTS: During my 25 years as a greenhouse operator and florist, I'm convinced that more house plants are killed by improper watering than any other cause. Young seedlings moved into pots should be watered immediately, giving them a good soaking.

Young plants just potted should be watered once, then again soon after. The first application may not wet the soil completely, but if followed immediately with another watering, the entire soil will be wet.

Pots just repotted should be watered well. Water it once, then give another application. Double watering after repotting insures thorough wetting of the soil.

Well established house plants received for holidays should be given good soakings whenever necessary to prevent wilting. Don't tease them with a cup of water. Plants in small pots dry out fast because of a limited soil volume and may need watering several times a day.

When soil dries in a pot, the earth shrinks away from the transplants. If I thin them

LARGE TAIL OF SMOKE rises hundreds of feet into the air at the end of the flame from a rocket motor, which was static tested recently at the Thikol Chemical Corp., Wasatch Division, near Brigham City, Utah. signs of the pot. When water is applied, much of it runs down the inside, and is lost before it can be absorbed. So actually, the plant doesn't get all the water, even though "I gave it lots of water!"

Plants which have drooped and withered from lack of water should be put in a pan of water and allowed to soak for one-half hour, using warm water. You'll be surprised to see how badly wilted plants can snap back. Next week: More on watering plants.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: S.W. of Twin Falls: "This year our tulips sent up only one large leaf, no blossoms. I heard that this is a sign that the bulbs are too thick and need this year's underplant we won't get any flowers for at least two years—is that true?"

Usually one leaf means that the bulbs are overcrowded and need thinning. When they are allowed to grow crowded, the bulbs do become crowded and are small. These should be separated and planted singly.

Here's how we handle our outdoor tulips. After the foliage has yellowed off about 3/4, they are dug and stored in the shade for a resting period. Then they are planted in August or September. It may take small bulbs two or three years before they build up enough food reserves to bloom. Large bulbs will usually blossom the following spring.

Daffodils like to be divided every two years, although they are not so finicky as tulips in this matter. I've seen patches of daffodils growing wild and they blossom year after year, though the plants are small, yet the plants do flower.

Tulips and daffodils whose buds turned brown and did not open, did what is called "blast" and the trouble here is botrytis or fire blight, a fungus disease. Do not discard the bulbs as they are unaffected. Cut off dead buds and remove leaves and burn them. Spray or dust the remaining plants with Captan. Next spring be sure to treat the new plants just as they are emerging from the soil.

S. R. of Rock Creek: "Last year our lima beans were a total crop. Plants grew well, but the buds all dropped off. What caused this? Please tell us the name of a good variety."

Bud drop is a common complaint and is due to hot dry weather or overfeeding, or dry soils. You can prevent dropping of flowers by mulching your plants with plastic sheets, grass clippings or straw as soon as plants are about six inches high. Lima beans should not be planted until warm weather really is here to stay, as cool, wet soil causes seed to rot.

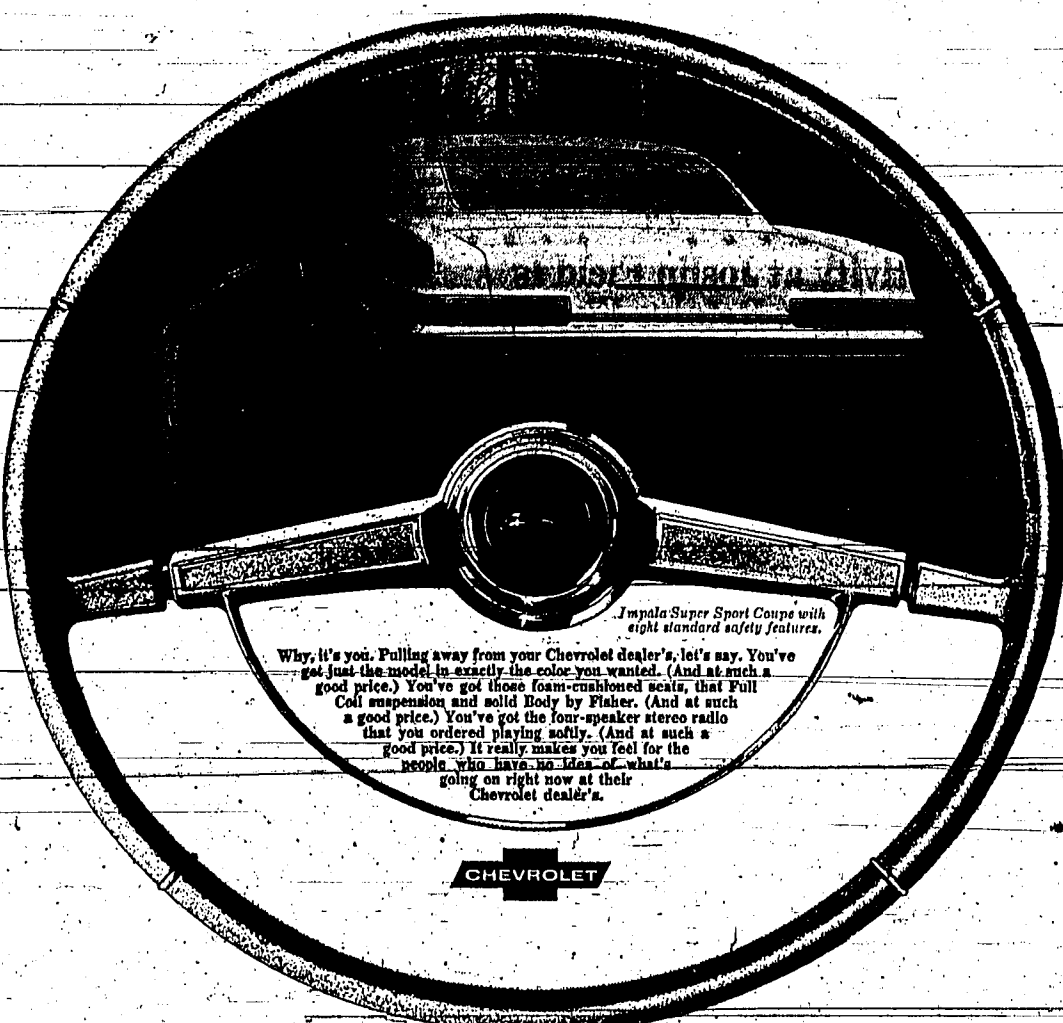

Plant three beans in every 15 inches of row, and make sure you place the eyes downward (makes a difference in yield for all beans). A good baby lima is 'Thaxton', having bush vines. Fordhook U.S. 28 is another good bush lima, good fresh, canned or frozen. For a fine pole lima, try King of the Garden.

A. O. of Oakley: "We received a Pocketbook plant for Mother's Day. What care does it need for another year?"

Give the plant a bright window and a lot of water. Snip off faded blooms immediately. Keep plant cool for longer life. You can start new plants from seed which must be grown cool. After blooming period is over, you can cut the plant back one-half and attempt to grow it on again for another year, or you can discard it.

Love of Children Important Trait Of Those Engaged in Boy Scout Work

Although he cannot prove it,

Alan R. Hutchison, field director for the Snake River Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, is certain that most scout executives have families consisting mostly of girls.

Perhaps, he laughs, this is why they (the executives) get into scouting. He didn't want to come right out and say it is because they want to get away from the girls, but the inference with tongue in cheek, was there.

Seriously, though, a man working in scouting first of all must have a love of children and this is the case with Hutchison. To the question of how he could stand so much active confusion, such as during the summer camping season, he said that he really didn't know it exists.

"To me it is just the good sound of a great bunch of active and wonderful boys letting off steam," he said.

He should know, because for eight years in a row now he has been senior camp operator at one place or another. This job, for instance, has fallen to him every year since he came into the Twin Falls area.

Some of the best scout leaders that have been produced have had no sons, but this does not prohibit them from devoting a good portion of their free time to scouting.

In the United States, for instance, Hutchison says there are 4,000 professional leaders against 1,500,000 volunteer leaders.

"It is a wonderful thing when this many men will give so much of their time to aid the five million boys engaged in scouting at the present time," Hutchison said.

He added that nationwide three out of four boys will be engaged in scouting in some form before they reach the age of 13.

He was born and raised in Seattle, went through grade and high school there and graduated from the University of Washington with a degree in history-education. He joined the Boy Scouts of America professional service on April 1, 1938, at Olympia, Wash.

In 1962 he was married to Judy Ann Joki, also of Seattle, upon her graduation from the University of Washington as a registered nurse. He was transferred to Burley on Oct. 1, 1962, and served Minidoka and Cassia counties as a district scout executive. The area included the two counties and included 112 Cub Packs, Scout Troops and Explorer Posts with a total membership of 2,300 boys.

In the fall of 1964 he was transferred to Twin Falls and promoted to the position of field director, which he now holds. In this capacity he is particularly responsible for the special activities of the council as well as serving the Twin Falls area exclusive of Buhl and Castleford. The Southside district, as it is called, has a total membership of 2,013 boys in 87 units.

Boys who are in the scouting movement in this area are probably more fortunate than those in any other section of the nation, the field director said. "Working out of Camp Bradley, the boys are offered more activities in a readily available area than anywhere else in the nation. We have, for instance, the fabulous White Water trip down the Middle Fork of the Salmon River, the Maishu Trail biking trip, and a Saddle Scouting setup.

"This Saddle Scouting setup is on the program for the first time this summer and practically all reservations are taken, even this early. It is a sort of trail ride which the boys will enjoy and which will help them gain a love for the ruggedness of the area through which they travel.

"No area I know of can match what we have to offer scouting right out of that camp," Hutchison declared. Hutchison wants to be sure that credit is given where credit

GSA Slates Equipment Sale June 4

BOISE—The General Services Administration will auction off about 100 items of automotive equipment June 4 at Boise.

These items to be sold were in use by federal agencies in the Boise area and most of them are in operating condition.

Some of the items to be auctioned include sedans, convertibles, coupes, station wagons, Jeeps, 1½- and 2½-ton flatbed trucks, sedan deliveries, one-ton stake, pickups, panels, trencher, horse trailers and jacks.

Crawler tractor, batteries and tires, logging canopies, dozer blades and valves, steam cleaner and "cherry" and one-half-ton quarter and one-ton pickup trucks.

These items may be inspected from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. June 2 and 3, and from 8 a.m. until time of sale, 10 a.m., June 4 at the Forest Service Area Equipment Depot, 721 9th St. S., Boise.

Partial payment of 20 per cent of the sale price is required at the time of purchase with the balance by June 10.

Further information may be obtained by calling the GSA Interagency Motor Pool System in Boise, 342-2711, extension 264, or General Services Administration at Auburn, 833-6500, extension 401.

is due. The work of the volunteer scouters makes the difference in the success of any program and there is no exception in the program here.

"These dedicated men are the lifeblood of the area and the fact they are succeeding is indicated by the growth of scouting which is growing by leaps and bounds right now," he said.

Although professional scouting means long hours of work, including one night meeting after another, Hutchison still finds time to enter into other community activities, including United Fund work.

He is a member of the First Presbyterian Church in Twin Falls and the local Kiwanis Club. He also is a trustee of a "national" Indian art museum, Indian art being a hobby he picked up during his college days.

Hutchison resides with his wife and family at 1914 Addison Ave. E.

Growing Number of Rabies Cases by Bats Being Reported Throughout U.S.

ELIZABETH, N.J.—Bathian may be very big with today's kids, but parents should hammer home to youngsters a warning against picking up and handling bats because of the rabies hazard they represent.

So said Dr. Ralph E. Neal of the National Pest Control Association in pointing out that bats are becoming an unpleasantly common carrier of rabies.

It's not known exactly how bats become rabid, Dr. Neal said, although experiments have suggested that the virus which causes rabies can be transmitted through the air. The fact that humans exploring bat caves have become infected without being bitten tends to suggest air-borne infection, although normally humans are infected through animal bites.

The peril to children, points out Dr. Neal, comes from the fact that in the final stages of the disease, the bats lose their strength and ability to fly. They go to the ground and flutter helplessly. Cats, dogs or youngsters may be attracted to them and pick them up and be bitten in the process.

The needle-like teeth of the tiny animal are so sharp as to bite without causing pain. An excited youngster can be bitten without even knowing it. Rabies, of course, is transmitted to humans through biting.

Ordinarily, no bat will ever come close enough to the human on the ground to be caught unless it is sick. Therefore, warns Dr. Neal, if you can catch it and pick it up, it's sick, so stay away from it. Pick it up with tongs and put it in a jar, seal it and call your local health officer.

However, a bat can be cap-

Bible School Is Slated by Church

BURLEY—Zion Lutheran Church, Burley, will again sponsor a Vacation Bible School this year, with the course of study around the theme "My Savior and I." Rev. Glenn A. Koch announced.

The school will begin May 30 and will be in session from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m. through June 10. All children in Burley are cordially invited to attend.

executives seem to have more girls than boys.

"But I'm well satisfied," he laughs.

so it is good judgment to avoid touching or handling bats any place, any time, Dr. Neal warned.

As a measure of how common rabid bats are becoming, Dr. Neal noted that 21 rabid bats were identified in 1965 in New Jersey alone, while as far back as 1961 the national total was only 186. Those were rabid bats, not human cases, he emphasized.

Aside from this spreading health hazard of rabies, Dr. Neal noted, bats have always been considered a friend of man, able of transmitting rabies even when it does not appear sick.

Airline Aide To Address Buhl Chamber

BUHL—James Wilkins, who is associated with the Sun Valley Airlines at Gooding, will be the keynote speaker for the Buhl Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting on Monday at the R and R Cafe banquet room.

The Tourist of the Week program will be initiated Monday and will continue through the summer season. The tourist promotion program is under the direction of Don Mickelwitz and Warren Saunders, co-chairmen.

During this week's luncheon meeting Edward Novacek, vice president, announced preliminary work has been done relative to holding a trout day promotion in conjunction with the Miss Buhl Pageant slated for June 18.

He pointed out if it proves feasible a committee will be appointed and plans completed. He also noted the membership of the group has reached 85.6 per cent of the goal for this year.

Kenneth Curtis, highway chairman, advised the group that Charles W. Glasby, consulting engineer from Twin Falls, has been selected to do the initial planning for the new bridge north of Buhl in the Clear Lake area. He pointed out it is anticipated that plans will be completed this summer and bids for construction will be let early in 1967.

A letter was read from President L. B. Johnson urging local businessmen to employ college and high school students during summer vacation.

primarily because of their prodigious appetite for insects. Their swooping, darting flight in the evening dusk is their bug-hunting technique.

Their combination of sharp vision and sound-ranging system enables them to perform extraordinary acrobatic feats in pursuing and catching the insects which come out with sundown.

Bats spend their days (and their winters, too) in places like caves, deserted buildings, attics and lofts, where they are sheltered and protected. They can enter houses and become a nuisance. Moreover, though the possibility of the parasites leaving the fur of their hosts and infecting a house and its inhabitants, they can be more than a mere nuisance.

But the growing threat of rabies transmission through the bat is the principal current worry of the National Pest Control Association and Dr. Neal warned that youngsters should be firmly taught to stay away from bats.

Any time they are within reach. The bat population is believed to contain one per cent rabid individuals in the spring and two to three times that proportion in the fall.

Not only is there the peril in the disease itself, he pointed out, but even in suspected cases, the victim must undergo a drawn-out and painful series of precautionary injections.

he said it is mostly a "fun event" and will not be dangerous or require special care.

The race will start at 8 a.m. each day and there will be no charge for spectators. An entry fee of $2 will be made and prizes and trophies will be awarded in each event.

Douglas puffs also will be held for the women, said John Shalin, chairman for the event. He said the Sawtooth Ramblers (local four-wheel drive club) will take participants on a scenic ride and a picnic dinner May 30.

Sabala said anyone wishing to enter should write Ben Jewell, Ketchum.

The MEANING of WORDS...

Some words don't achieve their true meaning until they have been in use for many years. This could be said of the word "Realtor" . . . a word which is the registered trade mark of members of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and which can be used as a professional designation only by real estate brokers who meet the strict qualifications of such membership.

Through decades of service to the public, the people who have earned the right to call themselves "Realtors" have established a meaning for the word. To the millions who have been served, "Realtor" stands as a professional title signifying helpful, honest, intelligent and dedicated service. The real meaning of the word has been built by the outstanding public services which Realtors have performed.

Realtor Week, May 22 to 28, is a time when the attention of a grateful public is focused on the people who are best qualified to handle real estate matters of any nature.

Whether buying or selling real estate, you will receive service of the highest professional standards when you deal with a broker who proudly displays the familiar oval symbol signifying he is a Realtor.

Young Musicians Present Rose Luncheon Program

By NORMA HERZINGER

Many talented young musicians are brought to the attention of the Twin Falls Music Club, a member of the National Federation of Music Clubs. Four of these talented youngsters, top scholarship winners, presented an excellent program during the Twin Falls Music Club's annual Rose Luncheon at the YWCA.

One from each classification, strings, voice, orchestral winds and piano, William (Bill) Hoffman, son of Rev. and Mrs. Donald Hoffman; Velma Guyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Guyer; Lial Kofoed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kofoed; Hansen, and Margaret Van Orman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Van Orman, Jerome, presented a notable program.

The program was arranged by Mrs. Donald Youtz, but because of illness Mrs. David Mead introduced the scholarship winners. Mrs. Mead, mistress of ceremonies, introduced each program participant and gave a brief history and account of his or her accomplishments. She explained that the National Federation of Music Clubs, in its dedication to American youth, centers much of its attention to means for their education.

Talented youngsters, including the ones presenting the program, are introduced to members of the Twin Falls Music Club through the junior festivals and auditions.

Mrs. Mead stated that scholarships stimulate intensive study by providing an immediate objective toward which they may work. "Nine years ago we presented the first scholarship which amounted to $75 to one recipient. Since that time our scholarship fund has grown until this year we are awarding scholarships to eight recipients," she stated.

Since 1957 the Twin Falls Music Club has presented awards to 47 young musicians from Magic Valley totaling $5,003 - $1,105 this year.

Hoffman studied with John Best from Boise College and was chosen the local Tempo winner and (Continued on Page 34, Col. 1)

WRITING A CHECK for the Twin Falls Music Club scholarship winners is Mrs. John Birrell, immediate past president, as Mrs. Donald Youtz, left, scholarship chairman, and Mrs. Francis Elder, immediate past second vice president, look on. Scholarships presented by the Twin Falls Music Club, a member of the National Federation of Music Clubs, amounts to $1,105 this year. Scholarship winners presented the recent luncheon program. Beef Promotion Projects Named By CowBelles

SHOSHONE — Projects are under way for the year with a beef promotion campaign of Father's Day by the Purple Sage CowBelles, officers announced after their annual no-host luncheon and meeting at the Lincoln Inn.

Members decided to sponsor the making of an afghan to be given away at the state convention in December in Boise. While elephant items will again be collected to be sold at the County Store in Fairfield at their 4-H fair and rodeo.

Proceeds will be used to promote projects of the CowBelles. A quilt, made by CowBelles, will be on display at each county fair and will be given away in the fall. It will be displayed in Hagerman July 24.

Repairs will be made on the CowBelles' buckboard wagon so it may be used as a float in each county fair parade.

A suggested project of the legislative committee is to make available to each member an up-to-date copy of the bylaws in booklet form. The courtesy committee will function especially at the spring meeting to greet guests, seat them at tables and to provide table favors and decorations.

Publicity chairman are to make the public aware of activities. They are Mrs. Ervin Brauh Shoshone, and Mrs. William Shane, Gooding.

Pictorial, newspaper items and material for a scrapbook are to be given to Mrs. Sterling Bray, Bliss, who will keep the book.

The fall meeting will be rotated to be held in each county in turn. The program committee will be in charge of special features at these meetings. This year the fall meeting has been scheduled to be held Sept. 30 at Fairfield. The 1967 spring meeting will be in Glens Ferry.

Mrs. Ted Gooding was named beef promotion chairman by Mrs. William Walker, Glens Ferry, president. Other committee chairmen will be announced.

The organization includes members in Elmore, Camas, Gooding and Lincoln counties. Mrs. Arles Hupfer, Fairfield, is vice president for Camas County; Mrs. Roy Jolley, Hagerman, Gooding County, and Mrs. Smilie Wilcox, North Shoshone, Lincoln County.

Each vice president appointed committee chairmen for their county. Any woman interested in the promotion of beef can be a member of the organization.

Mrs. Hazel Stein, Glens Ferry, secretary; Mrs. J. Thomas, Glens Ferry, treasurer, and Mrs. Sterling Bray, Bliss, historian.

Shoes to Match Every Facet of Fashion Listed

Shoes to match every facet of fashion—personality, be it brash, breezy, or—beautifully elegant—are spring's specialty.

They're excitingly varied in style, and leather textures are equally diverse.

Textures may be smooth or grained, sueded or embossed, patent or lustrous, reports Leather Industries of America. In each texture, there are myriad footwear fashions from which to choose.

Shoes with an open feeling—strapped, sling-back, cutaway—are a vital part of the spring footwear story. For costumes that are just a bit brash, there's the little girl look of round-toed low heeled mary janes, single or double-strap, in patent and smooth leathers.

In the same vein are quilted leather strap pumps, or Mondrian effects, with white T-strappers set off by sections of strong color.

Curly of line is the strong point of T-strap pumps, cut at the back and crated of leather. Elegant too, are simple sling-backs or pumps which feature an open latticework of leather along the sides.

In a cool and casual mood are open-toed sandals sportng a hand-crafted look, or walking shoes in grained or brushed leather, with broad T-straps and chunky heels.

The closed shoe, too, has several sides to its character. It may show up as a snappy casual, a winsome walker, a dream of a dress shoe—usually with the new rounder toe.

Pick a pastel—or any color. It's available in a fetching leather flat, grainily textured and trimly tied. Other styles for informal hours include low-heeled shoes with "up front" details, high cut fronts, tongues, ghillies, ribbon ties.

Breezy brogues and moccasins continue important in new spring variations. The moccasin, an all-season favorite, shows up in several styles—loafer, kitten heel, monk strap type.

For footwear with a far-out touch, new flaties sport outsize buckles or zippers. Other eye-catchers are ankle or calf high boots in embossed, patent or brushed leather. Some have diminutive toe openings, while others look different with Mondrian patterns.

Leather pumps, flatteringly lowered at sides or back—are ready for spring in many textures and tints, the choice includes finely naped suede, shimmering patent leather, glossy patent and smooth leathers, and striking embossed leathers.

Adding important ornaments—

the state winner, which means he has full tuition paid at the University of Arizona for three weeks at the summer music camp.

Miss Guyer was awarded one of the highest scholarships to the seven week session at Sun Valley Music Camp for this summer. She has studied voice since she was in the ninth grade.

Kofoed was a member of the state clinic orchestra held in Pocatello and was named an alternate for a "concerting" to Sun Valley last year. This year he has earned a full tuition paid scholarship to a three week session of Sun Valley Music Camp.

Color plays a stellar role in the spring shoe picture. There's a trend to off-white, with pure white appearing mostly in tandem with black or dark brown.

Important in daytime are the "no-color" neutrals, tying for honors with a large family of beige, tan and browns.

For both daytime and after-five wear, there are exciting color combinations available—green and mushroom, purple and pink, orange and blue, bright navy and green. Both shades may be used equally, or one may be used as trim.

Mrs. M. Tanner Gives History Of Theater

The American Association of University Women met for luncheon at the YM-YWCA. Mrs. Jane McElroy, chairman for the study of revolution in modern China, introduced Mrs. Marion Tanner, who presented the program on the history of Chinese theater.

Mrs. Tanner stated that Chinese theater, like our western theater, is an outgrowth of a worship, and records of its existence date back as far as 3,000 B. C. However, it flourished around 700 A.D., under the Emperor Ming Wong, at the time when Europe was in the Dark Ages.

As opposed to the realism of our western theater, Chinese theater is entirely symbolic, of a fairy quality, and provides an audience with various triumphs. It is always written in poetic form and has no element of mystery or suspense. It is always based on one of three themes: ancestral worship, faithfulness to husband, or military glory. She noted the traditional Chinese drama is performed today, but it always interjected with governmental doctrine.

During the meeting it was announced that two members have recently had books published: Mrs. L. W. Winkler, "The Journey Through a Century," which is about a Presbyterian missionary in the 1880's, is illustrated by Dorcas Peck, and is published by Standard Printers; and Mrs. Marion Tanner's "Basic Drama Projects," which is text for the teaching of drama in high school and college, and is published by the Clark Publishing Co.

Mrs. Gareth Wilson reported on the state AAUW convention in Idaho, Fall in April. Mrs. E. C. Geyer announced that the Old Book Nook will be open through the first half of the summer, starting the first week in June, from 10 a.m. to noon Wednesday and Friday mornings, and thereafter by appointment with Mrs. A. J. Peavler, 733-8159, or Bernice Babcock, 733-2602.

She announced that CSI students desiring an AAUW small loan must present their application in writing to the loan fund chairman, Mrs. Geyer, 117 E. Main Ave. W. or to Dean Keith at the college administrative office.

Chairman of the luncheon committee was Mrs. J. P. O'Connor, assisted by Mrs. Roger Græff, Mrs. Francis Schatz, Mrs. Hanley Payne, Mrs. Mel in Sackett and Mrs. Jack Swisher.

ENJOY THE WONDERFUL FEELING OF Flameless ELECTRIC HEAT

"I'd rather switch" THAN FIGHT THIS OLD FURNACE ANOTHER WINTER

"No more obsolete, flame-type heating for me! I've modernized with wonderfully clean, quiet and convenient electric heat. Soon we'll take out this basement monstrosity and build ourselves a new work shop in the same space. There'll be lots of old furnaces headed for the junkyard now that electric heat is here."

MR. AND MRS. JAMES HORNE

Jane Southwick Is Bride of James Horne

BUILT—The marriage of Jane Southwick, Salt Lake City, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Southwick, Buhl, and James Horne, Salt Lake City, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hales, Fayetteville, N.C., was solemnized May 14 in the Buhl First Presbyterian Church.

Vows were exchanged in an evening candlelight service performed by Rev. Dale K. Olson. Branches of candelabra entwined with ivy and baskets of apricot and white gladioli formed the background setting for the double ring nuptials.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white bridal satin designed with a sleeveless bodice and scoop neckline, accented with a jacket of Chantilly lace fastened at the back with miniature pearls. A cathedral train enhanced the bell-shaped skirt.

A rhinestone tiara, worn by her late grandmother Kaercher at her wedding 54 years ago, released her fingertip veil of silk illusion. A dainty silver necklace, fashioned of a small heart centered with a diamond, a gift from the bridegroom, served as her jewelry.

The bride's wedding bouquet was a cascade arrangement of Zerinia roses and apricot-colored pompons.

Mrs. Charles Pintler, Nampa, was matron of honor, Marie Wasko, Salt Lake City, was bridesmaid and Susan Southwick, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

The bride's gown and her attendants' gowns were made by the bride's mother, Coraage and bouquets were arranged by Mrs. Chester Noh.

Sally Southwick, sister of the bride, served as flower girl. Brad Pintler, Nampa, was ring bearer. Kathy Lyda, Richland, Wash., and Ronnie Kaercher, Buhl, cousins of the bride, were taper lighters.

William (Bill) Southwick, Salt Lake City, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were Jack Southwick, brother of the bride; Marvin Kaercher, cousin of the bride; and Scott Busmann, all Buhl.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Gerald Jensen, organist. She also accompanied Mrs. Larry Peterson, Wendell, soloist.

Immediately following the ceremony, the newlyweds greeted guests at a reception held in the church parlors. The bride's table featured a white lace tablecloth with an apricot background highlighted with a four-tiered wedding cake surrounded at the base with ivy and gladioli. The cake, led in white, was adorned with heart-shaped lattice work, butterflies and wedding bells with apricot accents and was topped with an array of triple wedding bells decorated with tulips and lilies of the valley.

Crystal candelabra with apricot tapers entwined with ivy and gladioli flanked the cake.

Mrs. Thomas Lyda, Richland, and Mrs. Rudolph Peterson, Buhl, aunts of the bride, presided at the coffee service and poured punch. Mrs. Hershel Griggs, Pocatello, and Mrs. Lee Henderson, Buhl, cousins of the bride, cut and served the cake.

Other reception assistants were Mrs. Ruth Sonten, Buhl, Walter Pembler, Mrs. Mary Bax, Buhl, Ruth Shields, Mrs. Bennah Kaster and Mrs. Lillian Voeller.

Diana Kaercher, Florence Wasko and Margaret Wasko, Buhl, cousins of the bride, were in charge of the gift table. Mrs. Joseph Martin, Buhl, registered guests.

The couple will reside at 187 J St., Salt Lake City.

Out-of-town guests attended from Twin Falls, Gooding, Wendell, Jerome, Mountain Home, Ellettsburg, Pocatello, Nampa, Richland, Wash., and

DEAF MAN PERFECTS TINY HEARING AID

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—A remarkably tiny hearing aid has been perfected by a man who has been hard of hearing for nearly ten years.

This small device has no dangling cords or separate transmitting units and represents a new and unusual design idea in a product to restore natural hearing.

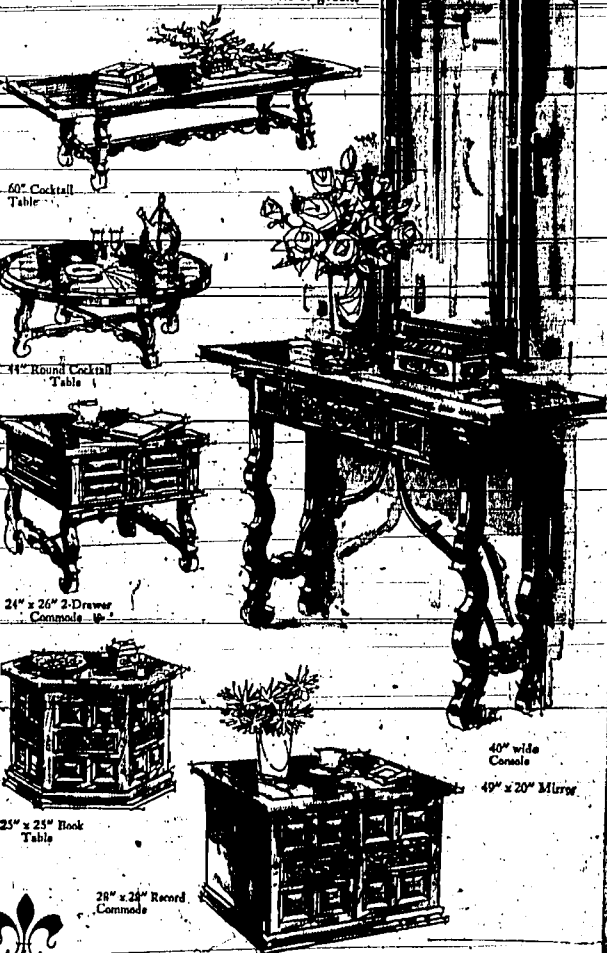

It was developed especially for those persons who can hear but can't understand. This new hearing instrument provides "ear-level" hearing with the wearer picking up speech, sound, television and radio at his ear.

Due to the use of transistors, the user cost is extremely low. The instrument weighs only 1/2 oz. It is about the size of a sewing thimble—hardly noticeable yet powerful.
